HIPPOS HIT WITH SPRING FEVER

African animals, too, appear to experience the restlessness of the first days of spring, as evidenced by this pair of hippopotamuses making the "splash of the season" at California's Lion Country Safari, an African wildlife preserve at Irvine in Orange County. (UPI Telephoto)

More Troops, Prisoners Come Home From Vietnam

Four Days Remain For Rest

SAIGON (UPI) — Almost 1,000 U.S. troops left South Vietnam Tuesday and the Viet Cong released 32 American prisoners of war, beginning the final phase of a withdrawal program that in four days will end the United States' involvement in its longest war.

Under a plan announced by the United States and the Vietnamese Communists Monday, 1,800 more American troops will leave Wednesday, 2,500 will go Thursday, and another 825 will be withdrawn Saturday.

Completion of the withdrawal will coincide with the7release of the last American prisoners known to be held by the Communists in North and South Vietnam and in Laos.

The Viet Cong released 32 prisoners, including five civilians, in Hanoi on Tuesday. The Communist Pathet Lao of Laos are scheduled to release nine Americans Wednesday morning, and the North Vietnamese will free 40 more Americans later in the day.

The American military men captured in Laos are Capt. Jack M. Butcher, 26, Ann Arbor, Mich.; Maj. Norbert A. Gotner, 37, Kansas City and Shawnee, Kan., and Mt. Shasta, Calif.; Maj. Edward W. Leonard Jr., 34, Winlock, Wash.; Capt. Stephen G. Long, 29, Hastings, Neb.; Capt. Charles F. Riess, 31, St. Louis, Mo.; Lt. Col. Walter M. Stischer, 42, San Antonio, Tex.; and Navy Lt. Henry J. Bedinger, 28, Hatboro, Pa., and San Diego, Calif.

The American civilians are Ernest C. Brace, 41, a native of Detroit, Mich., and a pilot with the firm Bird and Sons, who was shot down May 21, 1965; and Samuel Mattix, 21, a native of Centralia, Wash., who was captured Oct. 28, 1972, while working for the Christian Missions in Many Lands organization in Laos. Also scheduled for release was Lloyd D. Oppel, 21, a native of Courtenay, British Columbia, who was captured with Mattix and also was connected with the mission group.

The Pentagon believes other Americans who have never been acknowledged also are held prisoner by the Pathet Lao, the Laotian communists. However, it appears unlikely any more POWs in Laos will be identified until after the search

AFTER 63 OFFENSES

Long-Time Lawbreaker Begins First Jail Term

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

A 19-year-old Novatan, who has a police record of 63 offenses in six years, has just started serving his first county jail term.

He drew a 60-day sentence from Judge Robert A. Smallman in Marin Municipal Court last week following a plea of guilty to two drunken driving charges and a charge of battery.

After sentencing, he agreed to permit the court to make his probation report public. Such reports customarily are kept confidential, and since there may be other equally striking cases of which the history is not available, his name will not be used. He will be called J.C.F.

The voluminous police record on J.C.F. shows that his first arrest, for burglary and malicious mischief, was on Nov. 6, 1966, less than four months after he reached his 13th birthday. Novato police cited him to the probation department — as they did repeatedly thereafter. The record indicates no term in juvenile hall.

Twenty-one of J.C.F.'s alleged violations occurred while he was on probation, between April 21, 1969, and Dec. 16, 1970. He drew no time behind bars for any of these.

Two of them occurred since the drunken driving and battery offenses which he was sentenced last week. He had been released on his own recognizance after the second drunken driving offense. The battery was committed while in jail, prior to that release. He was not returned to jail for the subsequent offenses, remaining free on his own recognizance until he appeared for sentencing.

The probation department in its report to the court commented, "It is very obvious from looking at his outrageous juvenile record that he has been involved in trouble for many years at an alarming rate of occurrence."

The report continued, "To say that the community has

School Post Finalists Are Named

The Mill Valley School District board last night announced the names of four finalists for the post of district superintendent. The list includes Peter G. Palches, principal of San Rafael High School.

Other contenders are Thomas C. Boysen, superintendent of schools in Pasco, Wash.; Henry C. Heusner, regional administrator for the Livonia Public Schools near Detroit, and Robert J. Lindstrom, area administrator for the Ocean View Public Schools in Orange County.

Patsy White, secretary to the superintendent, said the board did not announce when it will decide among the four. Supt. James A. Collins leaves his post July 1 to return to classroom teaching.

In other business, the board heard a contract proposal from teachers which includes a 10 per cent salary boost plus a cost-of-living increase. Mrs. White said the dollar amount the raises would cost the district have yet to be determined.

Board members also looked favorably on the idea of having about 40 students from Martin Luther King School in Sausalito

U.S. Marshal Is Wounded In Hail Of Indian Gunfire

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (UPI) — Indians opened fire on federal officers at a roadblock near Wounded Knee Monday night, injuring a U.S. marshal. The marshal was in serious condition today at a Denver, Colo., hospital.

William Hall, deputy chief of U.S. marshals, said he and Assistant Attorney General Kent Frizzell were making an inspection trip to the roadblock with a "VIP party" when supporters of the American Indian Movement (AIM), who seized Wounded Knee 28 days ago, opened fire.

U.S. Marshal Lloyd Grimm, 50, Omaha, Neb., was shot in the chest. He fell on his back and was carried to safety by Hall and Frizzell, Hall said.

Grimm was flown to Fitzsimons Army Medical Center in Denver, where he was listed in serious condition.

Wayne Colburn, chief of U.S. marshals, told newsmen Monday night that the chief concern for Grimm was an "element of paralysis" in Grimm's lower left leg. Colburn said, however, that the paralysis may be caused by shock.

Hall said, "This is by far the heaviest fire we have received since the occupation began." He said at least 1,000 rounds of fire were directed at four government outposts Monday night. It was not known if the gunfire was returned.

A government spokesman estimated that the Indians occupying Wounded Knee have fired between 10,000 and 15,000 rounds of ammunition during the occupation. The spokesman said he believed the Indians might have been trying to bring in more ammunition during the night and that the gunfire which left Grimm wounded probably was some sort of diversionary tactic.

AIM leaders approached the government Monday to request a meeting. Frizzell agreed to the meeting and a negotiating session was set for 2 p.m. MST today. The site of the meeting was not immediately determined, but Frizzell said he believed it would be held at a point between government roadblock No. 1 and Wounded Knee, about one mile inside the no-man's land between the Indians occupying the hamlet and the government forces sealing if off from the outside world.

Rifle-carrying Oglala Sioux, led by controversial tribal chairman Dick Wilson, set up a new blockade outside Wounded Knee Monday, vowing to starve out armed AIM militants entrenched in the historic Pine Ridge reservation hamlet.

Wilson and a force of 20 jeans-clad "warriors" set up a roadblock of their own on Big Foot Trail. They told government officials and newsmen they would stop food, fuel, medical supplies, newsmen and lawyers from entering the village.

Redevelop Squabble Truce Almost Ready

The Marin County Board of Supervisors indicated today it hopes to consider at its next meeting a proposed contract that would end the long squabble over San Rafael's redevelopment plans.

Board members asked county legal staff to meet with city representatives to iron out remaining differences.

The move came after Stephen Goldfarb, legal consultant to city redevelopment, and City Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner gave a detailed review of what projects the city proposes with some $6 million in redevelopment funds.

"I hope we can have before us (by April 2) a proposed contract agreeable to both sides," said Supervisor Robert A. Roumiguiere.

The board expressed no specific disagreement with the outlined redevelopment projects — ranging from creation of a modified mall in the downtown area to improvement in the Canal region — although Chairman Arnold M. Baptiste indicated he still holds philosophical reservations.

Baptiste has been a consistent foe of vaious elements of redevelopment, a program under which the city would freeze assessed valuation in a wide swath of the downtown and Canal areas, using boosted tax revenue generated by redevelopment to pay off public improvement bonds.

No mention was made today of city rejection of a recent proposal by the county that it be empowered to veto any redevelopment projects that don't

SAN RAFAEL BALLOT

Appointive Treasurer At Issue

By NELS JOHNSON
(Second of six articles)

San Rafael voters April 17 will be asked to approve an amendment to the city charter making the post of city treasurer appointive rather than elective.

(Proposed charter amendments will appear on the San Rafael ballot as measures C through K, not A through H as previously listed by the city administration, it was reported today.

(City Clerk Marion A. Grady said the change in designation resulted when the county elections office assigned the letter A to the public safety building bond issue in Fairfax and B to the open space bond issue in San Anselmo.

(There is no Measure I on the ballot, because the county does not use that letter for measures in order to avoid confusion with the Roman numeral I.)

Proposition C among eight charter amendments that will appear on the ballot, has been rejected by voters three times since 1931 by large margins.

On Feb. 10, 1931, San Rafael voters rejected overhauling the city's 1912 charter by a vote of 1,047 to 549, apparently on the basis of a controversial proposal that the posts of police chief, city treasurer, city clerk and city attorney be appointive rather than elective.

The San Rafael Independent reported on the day after the 1931 election: "Apparently the main reason for the loss of the new charter is the fact that many found fault with its provision that certain city officials be appointed by the council rather than the people."

In April, 1967, voters rejected 4,163 to 1,706 a proposed charter amendment that would have made the police chief, city treasurer, city clerk and city attorney appointive rather than elective offices.

When listed separately in April, 1969, voters again rejected proposed amendments making the four offices appointive. The move to make the city treasurer appointive was defeated by a vote of 4,179 to 2,765.

In June, 1970, voters finally approved making police chief appointive when that proposal alone was on the ballot. The proposal to make the city treasurer appointive will appear alone on the ballot April 17.

The ballot argument supporting the latest move to make the city treasurer appointive declares: "The city treasurer is responsible for keeping records of the city's deposits and reconciling bank accounts. Modern financial administration should not be involved in politics and winning friends in order to remain in office. The incumbent city treasurer endorses making the position appointed by the city council rather than elected."

No argument in opposition to the proposal was submitted.

Finance Director John B. Averett, who was appointed city treasurer last year to fill out the term of retiring Angelina M. Soldavini, said that "divergent views" sometimes held by elected treasurers "interrupt the efficient and effective financial control of the city."

"The finance director should be the chief finance officer of the city," Averett said. "The treasurer's function is in the final analysis nothing more than an extension of the finance director's accounting function." The finance officer said he rejects the theory that an elected treasurer serves as a public watchdog over city funds because "we have internal controls and outside auditors" and thus no need for such a watchdog.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini said the post is "strictly an administrative position" and should not require an election. "The people might elect someone who didn't have the qualifications," said Bettini, adding that the office should be filled on the basis of professional ability.

The amendment, if passed, would become effective April 21, 1975, when Averett's appointed term as treasurer expires. Averett receives a salary of $1,628 per month, including a $100 raise granted when the council tapped him for treasurer's duties.

San Rafael is among four cities in Marin — the others being Fairfax, Ross and San Anselmo — that require the city treasurer to be elected.

Gallinas Valley Is Filling Up, Panel Told

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Marin County planning officials recommended yesterday a moratorium on proposed residential development in Las Gallinas Valley until new ways of controlling growth are developed. (Another county planning commission story, page 12.)

The proposal, suggested by Planning Director Werner von Gundell, came as the county planning commission took its first peek at the 1,100-unit San Pedro Reserve townhouse project, which would overlook Santa Venetia.

While von Gundell urged the commission to recommend a moratorium immediately to county supervisors, the commission shied away, saying it wanted more details.

The moratorium proposal was put over to April 9, when the commission also will consider the environmental impact report, master plan and related rezoning for the San Pedro Reserve project.

"This is the most innovative and advanced plan we have seen in Marin so far," von Gundell said of the townhouse project, which proposes five clustered villages on 15 acres of 257-acre hillside site behind the Tamalpais Convalescent Hospital on North San Pedro Road.

"I wish we could recommend approval now, but we can't because of the massive impact it would have on the entire Las Gallinas Valley," he said.

The proposed countywide general plan calls for 5,000 new dwellings in the valley through 1990, he continued. Already, more than 4,000 have been approved or proposed, counting the San Pedro project.

"The valley is endangered rom over-growth," von Gundell said, adding a moratorium would give the county time to develop ways of controlling the type, distribution and timing of residential projects to conform with the proposed countywide plan.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Oil Warning

AMSTERDAM (UPI) — Experts from the United States and Europe warned today that Arab nations might provoke a world energy crisis by cutting off oil supplies to the western world for political or business reasons.

Walter J. Levy, New York oil consultant and adviser to President Nixon, said there was an "extremely urgent" need for a common policy among the United States, Western Europe and Japan to meet this threat.

Among Levy's recommendations, delivered at the "Europe-America Conference," were a common search for new resources including atomic energy, contingency plans for stockpiling and rationing and a common front against the Arab oil producers.

Kissinger Call

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger ended a one-week vacation yesterday by calling on President Luis Echeverria, who is leaving later this week on a tour which will take him to the Soviet Union and China.

Echeverria is the first Mexican president to visit those countries.

Kissinger spent an hour with Echeverria and then boarded a private jet for Washington, said the U.S. Embassy.

Kissinger arrived in Mexico a week ago for a vacation in Acapulco that became something of a mystery. His activities were not reported by Mexican or American officials.

On Sunday night, he reportedly attended a dinner party in Acapulco hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Aristotle Onassis.

Japanese Quake

TOKYO (UPI) — An earthquake shook the Tokyo and Yokohama areas today, forcing the Japan National Railway to suspend operations around Tokyo.

There were no reports of damages or casualties.

The seismological center placed the quake's epicenter under the Tokyo bay but said there was no danger of tidal waves.

The tremor in Tokyo registered three while the intensity in Yokohama, the country's major seaport, registered four on the Japanese scale of seven.

Recall Petitions

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Backers of a movement to recall Gov. Jack Williams filed petitions yesterday they said contained 170,000 signatures, some 67,000 more than needed to force an election to unseat the governor.

But the signatures must still be verified by the office of the secretary of state, which must count them and accept only the signatures of registered voters. Differences of opinion over the legal process for a recall election could force the issue into the courts.

Phoenix lawyer Gerald Pollock, a Democrat, plans to run against Williams if a recall election is held, but other candidates also could enter.

Acupuncture

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Aides of Gov. George C. Wallace expressed cautious optimism yesterday after the governor underwent his third acupuncture treatment.

Press secretary Billy Joe Camp said that many treatments would be necessary before any true results would be known, but he said that "indications are promising."

Dr. Ling Sun-chu performed the needle treatment, as he did the previous two times.

Wallace had his first treatment March 12 to try and reduce pain he has lived with since being shot May 15, 1972. He has had six operations since the assassination attempt in Laurel, Md.

Price Protest

NEW DELHI (UPI) — About 100,000 people marched through New Delhi to the parliament building today in a peaceful protest against rising prices, food shortages and high unemployment.

The protesters, organized by the Communist Party, marched through the streets singing protest songs and chanting slogans asking for better treatment by the government.

Prater Convicted By Jury In Yablonski Death Trial

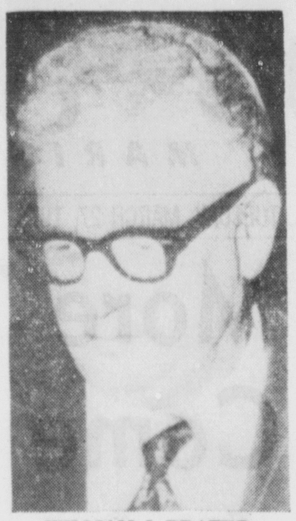
ERIE, Pa. (UPI) — A jury last night convicted former union organizer William J. Prater of first degree murder in the Yablonski slayings. The prosecutor claimed the conspiracy ultimately would lead to former United Mine Workers (UMW) president W. A. (Tony) Boyle.

The jury of seven men and five women announced its verdict in an almost empty courtroom at 11:26 p.m. EST, nearly seven hours after it received the case. An appeal and a request for a new trial will be filed later.

Prater, 53, was the highest ranking UMW official tried so far for the Dec. 31, 1969, killings of union reformer Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and daughter. When sentenced later, he could receive three maximum terms of life imprisonment. There was no sentencing date set.

With his wife and six of his seven children looking on and crying softly, Prater sat erect and stared without emotion at the jury when the verdict was read. As he left the courtroom. Prater smiled and waved at his family.

"'We'll keep fighting from here.' That was his statement," said defense attorney H. David Rothman.



WILLIAM J. PRATER
Found guilty of murder

Erie County Judge Edward Carney had told the jury it could return one of four verdicts on each of the three murder charges.

In his instructions, Carney told the jurors they might find Prater guilty of first or second degree murder, guilty of voluntary manslaughter, or innocent.

Within three hours after receiving the case, jurors returned to the courtroom to ask Carney to redefine Pennsylvania laws concerning conspiracy and complicity.

In his closing argument, special prosecutor Richard Sprague for the first time implied that Boyle originated the murder conspiracy.

"He had nothing on Boyle," said Rothman after the verdict was announced. "Whatever he has on Boyle, you saw in that courtroom."

Prater, from LaFollette, Tenn., had been charged with channeling $20,000 in borrowed UMW money to the Yablonski murderers. Another former official from the union's Kentucky-Tennessee District 19, Albert Pass, will stand trial in July on similar charges.

Five others have either been convicted or admitted varying roles in the murder conspiracy.

"This case is not over by a long shot today," Sprague said Monday. "You saw where we've been. You saw where we have to go—Tony Boyle, Albert Pass. . ."

Sadat's New Cabinet Is Said Far Short Of Being 'War' Unit

CAIRO (UPI) — Arab commentators said today President Anwar Sadat's new cabinet of "total confrontation" is a long way short of a "war cabinet" even though it contains a number of generals.

Announcement of the official cabinet list was expected this evening. But Cairo newspapers published its main features in this morning's editions on the basis of informed leaks.

The commentators agreed that President's Sadat's assumption of the premiership was the most dramatic change.

The late President Gamal Abdel Nasser did the same in the dramatic aftermath of the 1967 Six Day War with Israel.

In announcing his decision Monday, Sadat said: "The stage of total confrontation has become inevitable and we are entering it whether we like it or not. The military situation (with Israel) must be made to move, with all the sacrifices that this entails."

Three generals were maintaining the posts they held in the cabinet of resigned Premier Aziz Sidky. Gen. Ahmed Ismail remained War Minister, Lt. Gen. Ahmed Kamel Badri Minister of War Production and Maj. Gen. Ahmed Nouh Minister of Civil Aviation, the Cairo press said.

In addition, two more generals were entering the cabinet as Minister of Supply and Minister of State for cabinet affairs, the Cairo press said.

"It would be, however, a gross exaggeration to jump to the conclusion that the presence of these generals meant Sadat was forming what some sensational headlines have called a 'war cabinet,'" one commentator said in the Beirut publication The Arab World.

The commentator said supplies of consumer goods under Egypt's existing austerity conditions was one of Sadat's biggest domestic problems and he chose a military man to handle it.

The President also required a military man to run his office as premier, he said.

In his speech to parliament Monday, Sadat said he was putting his government on a basis of "full confrontation" because even Arabs had begun to doubt they were capable of fighting the Israelis.

"Unless we make this battle a starting point for building anew in every sphere, such as building up our armed forces, building factories and building up individual citizens, our people will never be able to survive," he said.

The only woman on the cabinet, Aisha Rateb, the minister of social affairs, retained her post.

In his broadcast, Sadat said he was taking over the premiership "for a certain period and for a specific mission.

"The stage of total confrontation has become inevitable and we are entering it whether we like or not," he said. "The military situation (with Israel) must be made to move, with all the sacrifices that this entails."

There was no mention in today's newspapers of outgoing Premier Aziz Sidky. Earlier reports said he might become vice president or vice premier.

Soviet Arms Buildup Said Exaggerated

LONDON (UPI) — Western diplomatic sources said today that investigations show a reported Soviet arms and troop buildup in the Far East is exaggerated.

Unofficial reports earlier suggested a new Soviet military buildup had reached crisis levels on the border with China, especially along the sensitive Sinkiang border and in Mongolia.

Nevertheless, Chinese sources say the Kremlin has progressively reinforced its troops and put in more up-to-date missiles.

Latest reports suggested the Soviet Union sent "a few more divisions" to the Chinese borders areas. They said the Soviet Union installed intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBMs) against China to bolster the mostly medium range rockets aimed at Chinese targets from bases along the border and in Mongolia.

The reports also said some troops have been or are being equipped with nuclear tactical weapons. This combination would enable them to cover virtually all key targets in China.

But the Western diplomatic sources said there was no confirmation of these reports.

On the other hand, the sources said, China has not been standing still. It has, according to recent reports, reinforced its medium range rockets.

China also was reported pushing the development of its ICBMs amid signs that its first test is likely this year, with production to follow in two to three years.

More openly, the sources said, China is expanding and strengthening its own network of underground shelters against blast effects from nuclear weapons.

As serious as these outward signs may appear, the source said, diplomatic assessments—as far as anything is certain in those areas—foresee little danger of war in the near or even more distant future between the one-time great Communist friends and allies.

Targets In Cambodia Hit Hard By Bombers

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — U.S. B52 bombers and other warplanes carried out raids in Cambodia for the 20th consecutive day today, hitting Communist targets eight miles from Phnom Penh with such force that it shook residents in their beds.

Military sources called the raids the closest and heaviest of the war in Cambodia, the only Southeast Asian country with no formal cease-fire. Residents of Phnom Penh literally were shaken in their beds several times as the bombers hit Communist positions.

In Honolulu, the U.S. Pacific Forces Command gave no details of the raids. But military sources said warplanes hit targets around Tuol Leap, eight miles from the capital, as well as positions along Highways 1 and 5.

Cambodian military sources said they believed the raids concentrated on the two Communist-occupied highways and a huge Communist complex southwest of the capital near Srang.

Intensified Communist activity also was reported around Phnom Baseth, 12 miles northwest of Phnom Penh, and around Preah Prasap, in the marshy grasslands of the Mekong River 15 miles east of the capital.

Military command sources said the situation along the Mekong was critical, with a river convoy carrying food, ammunition and gasoline supplies to Phnom Penh ordered to halt just inside the Vietnamese border. In the past month, Communists have attacked two convoys, sunk two American ammunition barges and badly damaged several cargo ships.

Communists, the sources said, now occupy both sides of the Mekong at a point near the naval base at Neak Luong, 32 miles from Phnom Penh, and are lying in wait for the expected convoy run.

Meanwhile, the sources said, government troops continued their battle today to clear the section of Highway 1 that leads to Neak Luong so the government can send in reinforcements and supplies.

Although Communist forces have occupied Highway 1 between Neak Luong and the Vietnamese border for nearly one year, they made their grab for the west bank stretch a week ago in what military sources called an all-out effort to isolate and capture the navy base.

The military command also reported Communist attacks against government posts 49 miles southwest of Phnom Penh along Highway 4, the capital's link to the vital Kompong Som seaport.

ONE MAN'S FEAST IS ANOTHER MAN'S FAMINE

An unopened box of raisins, a fresh carrot and some loose candy lie among these carefully wrapped cold cuts and sandwiches. A picnic feast in the making? No. It's part of affluent Marin's elegant garbage, retrieved the other day from a San Rafael High School refuse pail. Retriever John Schneider of San Rafael, said that as an anthropology student at College of Marin he is aware how horrifying is waste in a world where hundreds of millions of people go to bed hungry at night and countless millions die of starvation each year. He picked San Rafael High's garbage pail because it's nearest his home, but said he thinks any school or college in the county can produce similar yields. (Independent-Journal photo)

Open Space Plan Action Delayed

Bogged down over four different shades of green, the Tiburon City Council last night delayed adoption of an open space element until a map that goes with it is reworked.

Councilmen postponed adopting the element — required by state law — until confusion over several green areas shown on the map is cleared up.

Councilmen Branwell D. Fanning and Allan N. Littman, on viewing the map accompanying the proposed open space element, asked that it be redone so that citizens would not think all areas shown in green are to be acquired for open space.

What the green actually designates, explained Richard J. Arjo, director of community development, is land that will be acquired and also land on which planned developments would be built. The planned developments would carry with them some open space but the rest would be built on.

"I'm afraid the public will see the green (on the map) and assume all the land shown will be open from now on," Fanning said. "Someone may buy a house with the idea that the area behind them is going to remain open, and that's not entirely the case."

The map showed four shades of green: a so-called open space preservation zone, in which some development would be allowed; present city and county parks; playgrounds, and quasi-public open space, such as the Tiburon Peninsula Club and the Belvedere Tennis Club.

Councilmen, facing a June 30 deadline for adoption of the element, as mandated by state law, put over to an adjourned meeting the question of adopting the element. The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. next Monday at Del Mar School's music room.

Also put over to that meeting was a decision on whether to go ahead on negotiating with property owners for purchase of some of the designated open space.

Tiburon voters last fall approved a $1.25 million bond issue for buying open space.

City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer recommended that a negotiating team representing the city begin talks with various property owners, but that proposal was tabled.

Robert H. Wayne, a Tiburon planning commissioner, said he thought the city should take its time in starting negotiations.

"Time is on our side. First we should adopt the open space element, then rezone the land, and then negotiate," he said.

Littman, however, disagreed. "The price of land is going up and the value of money is going down," he said. "Some landowners may be willing to negotiate now but not later."

Mayor Albert H. Sennett said he thought Balmer's proposed course of action — negotiation with some property owners and identification of other land which is to be preserved through development controls so that developers could coordinate their plans with the city — had a "tremendous amount of flexibility."

The council nevertheless delayed a decision on the matter until it adopts the open space element.

City Employees Get Raises In Tiburon

Salary increases for 27 of Tiburon's 31 city employees, ranging from 2.5 to 15 per cent, were handed out last night by the Tiburon City Council.

The increases, voted unanimously after brief discussion, will increase the city's salary budget by $8,900, according to City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer. The raises are retroactive to Jan. 1.

Although the biggest single raise — a 15 per cent boost, raising the salary to $16,668 — was awarded to Richard J. Arjo, director of community development, the police department garnered the biggest share of the increase.

The 16 members of the department received a total of $4,247 in increases, ranging from $336 a year for Chief Maurice D. Lafferty to $291 for each of eight patrolmen.

It was the first raise for policemen, who began work last July after the Marin County sheriff's office ceased providing police protection for Tiburon on a contract basis.

The department's chief, lieutenant, two sergeants and eight patrolmen received 8 per cent raises, while four clerk-dispatchers got 3 per cent boosts.

Three city employees — the assistant city clerk, the clerk-stenographer and the senior clerk-stenographer —received no raise.

City manager Balmer's salary was not affected. His salary will be set by a special action of the city council when the budget is adopted.

The Tiburon City Council Also:

SIGNS — Adopted an ordinance giving businesses on upper floors the same rights to signs as those on ground floors. Previously, only one sign was allowed per building.

REZONE — Approved on first reading an ordinance rezoning the old Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way through Blackie's Pasture from P (park) to A-2 (limited agricultural). This move places all of the pasture in the A-2 zone and will make it unnecessary for the city to file an environmental impact report when it realigns Tiburon Boulevard through the pasture.

COURTS — Asked the council's public services committee, Allan N. Littman and M. Carlisle Becker, to explore the possibility of building two tennis courts at Del Mar School. According to estimates, the courts would cost about $32,000.

BUILDING — After a 30-minute discussion, approved on first reading a master plan for offices and three apartments at 7-11 Main Street. Applicant Fred G. Zelinsky unsuccessfully argued he should be allowed to build an apartment on the ground floor in the future if he wished, but the council approved the plan without deleting a provision that no apartment be built on the ground floor.

WALKWAY — Continued to the next meeting the matter of an allegedly unsafe boardwalk on city-owned right-of-way at 100 East View Drive. The delay will allow the city and the property owner, Edward C. Friedrichs III, time to compromise on the walk. The city claims it required a concrete sidewalk when the Friedrichs' house was built, but Friedrichs said he did not understand such a condition was being imposed.

Of 2.9 million school children in Texas, 2.3 million have been immunized against diphtheria, polio, measles, rubella and tetanus.

Renovations On Marina Approved

Directors of the Sausalito-Marin City Sanitary District last night approved plans for renovations to houseboat marinas at Gates 6 and 6½.

Secretary Edwin S. Long said the board endorsed owner George Kappas's plans to provide sewers for the houseboats and build a series of wharves on the property.

In other business, the board agreed to call for bids for $225,000 in equipment to provide further treatment for its sludge and dry waste residue, rather than dumping it into the bay.

Bids for the project will be open at the board's April 23 meeting, according to Long. The equipment is being financed by state and federal grants.

Directors also seated Barry C. Hibben on the board to replace board member Ture Dahlstrom, who has resigned because he will be doing extensive traveling this year.

The board invited former president Cyril J. Hansen to the meeting and then, in a surprise move, presented him with a plaque for his long service to the district.

Hansen, who resigned recently to move to Reno, had served on the district board since 1962 and had been board president from 1965 to 1972.

Sierra Cattlemen Up In Arms, Literally, Over Rustling Boom

PILOT HILL (UPI) — Angry cattlemen in the Sierra foothills, warning "there's going to be some killing," are threatening to take the law into their own hands unless something is done to stop cattle rustling.

The cattlemen are members of the newly formed Tri-County Livestock Protection Association, a group of large cattle ranchers from Placer, Nevada and El Dorado counties.

At an association meeting last weekend in this El Dorado County community, cattleman Barney Dobbas said : "More and more landowners and stockmen are carrying guns. And there's going to be some killing."

For almost two years the association has offered a $1,500 reward for arrest and conviction of cattle rustlers but the effort has had no success. Not a penny in reward money has been paid.

Meanwhile, the theft of cattle is getting worse. Most of the theft involves an animal being butchered in a field and a side of beef being hauled away.

During the meeting called to discuss alternatves to solving the problem, one gray-haired cattlemen growled:

"There's only one answer. When you catch some S.O.B. stealing your cattle, shoot him."

The cattlemen suspect "hippie types" of stealing their stock more than professional rustlers. They also blame local sheriffs and judges for lack of pursuit and prosecution of rustlers.

"We get little or no help from our law enforcement agencies," said Francis Bacchi, who runs one of the largest herds in El Dorado County. "And when they do get somebody, the courts turn 'em loose." Dobbas said he was with a deputy sheriff one day when they spotted a man butchering a cow. Dobbas said he and the deputy gave chase on foot but the deputy refused to draw his gun despite Dobbas' repeated shouts of "Shoot him! Kill him!" Dobbas said the rustler got away.

Ray Conway, owner of a cattle ranch near Grass Valley, said "when you're chasing a guy through the bush and he's got a gun, you're in a bad position because you're coming after him and he can lay for you in ambush." Conway said he didn't want to kill anybody but added he was a good enough shot to "knock a leg out out from under one of 'em."

But Gordon Garland, a cattle rancher who served as Assembly Speaker in 1940-41, said cattlemen are "getting damn tired of hearing what you can't do if you catch some no-good S.O.B. stealing your cattle.

"It's time some of those smart, young legal minds told us what we can do," Garland told the association. "I'll tell you what I'm going to do. I'm going to shoot the no-good S.O.B. and find what can be done about it."

But Ernest F. Winters, an attorney, advised the cattlemen to use discretion.

"You can't kill somebody merely to protect your property," Winters said. "To protect yourself from possible civil suit or even manslaughter or murder charges, you shouldn't shoot anybody caught slaughtering your cattle."

Tam Trustees Weigh Staff Work

The Tamalpais High School District board last night completed evaluation of half the district's administrators in a closed session and arranged to investigate the other half Saturday morning.

Administrators assigned to the district office and Sir Francis Drake High School were the subject of last night's private session, reported Edward J. Neumeier, administrative assistant.

The board will consider administrators at Redwood and Tamalpais High Schools in another closed meeting Saturday at 9 a.m. in the Redwood faculty lounge.

All four administrators at the district office, two at Drake, and two at Tamalpais have been notified they may be reassigned next school year, said Neumeier.

The affected personnel in the district office are Neumeier, James A. Fitzgerald, director of personnel; Walter S. Lee, coordinator of special education; and Frank A. Cassou, business director.

At Drake, Jack Hayes, program coordinator, and Francis E. Mulholland, administrative director, have been similarly notified, and at Tamalpais, Theodore Mitchell, and Anthony Compagno, both assistant principals.

The Tamalpais High School District board also:

STULL BILL — Heard a long report from Supt. Robert D. Torrey and educational leaders Donald Kreps, Thomas M. Lorch and Lawrence Sheppard on the way Stull Bill requirements for teacher and administrator assessment are being met; Trustee Jerrold M. Ladar questioned the lack of students' involvement in setting up teacher evaluation and Bette Wallace pressed for evaluation on the basis of student achievement.

PERSONNEL — Hired Anne D. Dewey as a driving instructor in the adult evening school at Tam High for the rest of the school year at $8 an hour; granted one year leaves for 1973-74 to Karen Emmons, teacher at Drake, and Carol Floyd, Tam High teacher.

RAISE — Granted Neumeier a $618.95 cost-of-living raise for the period Jan. 1 through June 30, 1973.

CONFERENCES — Approved Bette Wallace attending the administrative committee of the Industry-Education Council of California at El Segundo on March 28; Judith Fabian, Tam High psychologist, attending the Western Psychological Association convention in Anaheim April 11 to 14, and Ruthmarie Frank attending the California Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation convention in San Diego April 13 to 16.

STAFF DEVELOPMENT — Directed staff to have a detailed report on the district's policy governing paid leaves and conference expenses ready by June, the end of its first year of operation.

MEETING — Set its next regular meeting for Monday at 8 p.m. at the Tamalpais High School student center.

Lawbreaker Finally Receives Jail Term

resources for (J.C.F.) is in fact stretching the point; however, to send him to the Youth Authority at this juncture would seem unfair in that his prior experiences with committing offenses and having them resolved without sanction almost sets him up as a victim." It then recommended a 60-day county jail term and two years' probation, with J.C.F. to be "Made aware of the prospects for the California Youth Authority."

That would be something with which J.C.F. already is acquainted, for he served 90 days in CYA custody in 1971, following his arrest on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

Aside from that, he had known custody only for seven brief periods in Marin County Juvenile Hall, apparently mostly mere overnight stays.

In all but one of the 63 offenses, J.C.F. had been arrested or cited by Novato police, the exception being when he was picked up in San Francisco for marijuana possession on March 4, 1969. In 18 of those cases, Novato police let him go with a reprimand. Twenty-seven times, they cited him to the probation department, but only seven times was he booked into juvenile hall. Other cases were closed with no complaint, turned over to school authorities, etc.

Fifty-three of these were while J.C.F. was a juvenile. Ten more offenses are shown on his adult record, beginning March 6, 1972. These included driving offenses (drunken, speeding, suspicion of hit-run), theft, possession of stolen property, illegal liquor purchase, assault and battery, and assault with a deadly weapon (his car).

He was jailed overnight after his first adult arrest, on suspicion of battery and hit-run driving, but the case was not pursued. A complaint was issued four months later on a liquor violation, but no disposition is shown. The following month, a traffic citation and assault on a policeman were referred to the district attorney, but J.C.F. was let go with a reprimand for possession of a stolen police baton. The liquor purchase and assault with his automobile — which was on an off-duty police officer — were referred to the district attorney, but no complaint is shown to have issued. The theft case was dropped when the victim got the stolen stereo back and declined to prosecute.

J.C.F. "appears to be a young man who is involved in classic sub-cultural delinquency, an extremely difficult phenomenon to deal with," commented the probation report.

The events that led to his first jail sentence began the night of last Dec. 22, when Novato police found him spinning his car about a large circle in the Novato Fair Shopping Center. He failed to pass a roadside sobriety test and was booked for drunken driving. He was released on his own recognizance.

The following day, Novato officers saw J.C.F. enter a liquor store with two other youths. He was followed and arrested for illegal liquor purchase. He was again released without bail.

Three weeks later, on the night of Jan. 12, Novato police again arrested J.C.F. for drunken driving. This time he became abusive and refused to take any alcohol test at the police station or at the county jail. He was booked into jail.

Less than two hours later, jailers heard a disturbance in the "drunk tank." They found a 55-year-old prisoner lying on the floor, bleeding from the mouth. He indicated J.C.F. had hit him. J.C.F. admitted this.

The beating victim was taken to Marin General Hospital, where at 3 a.m. and again at 4 a.m. he was reported to have suffered heart attacks.

The probation report leaves him there, in the intensive care unit, and says: "Several attempts have been made to locate (the victim), with no success." However, the sheriff's department reports that he was back on his job at a bottling company the following week.

The offenses for which J.C.F., over the six years, received numerous reprimands, a few nights in juvenile hall, and one 90-day commitment to the Youth Authority, ranged from curfew violations through drunkenness, marijuana possession, petty theft, burglary and simple assault to two cases of assault with deadly weapons.

Says the probation report: "Time and again he was referred to juvenile authorities on citations, by booking, etc., and in essence, no discernible action was taken."

Judge Smallman commented that, on the record, J.C.F. deserved a longer jail term than 60 days, but because he "didn't want to go from one extreme to the other," he would limit it to that — plus two years' probation.

attend the Mill Valley Middle School next year.

Mrs. White said the plan would give the students a taste of attending a larger school — thus easing the transition from King School to Tamalpais High — and also would give them the opportunity of taking courses not available in the Sausalito district.

For the third year, approval was given for Mill Valley students to attend summer school in the Sausalito district.

The board also hired Melinda Rosenthal as a library clerk to work at the district's instructional materials center at a salary of $471 per month, Mrs. White said.

TROOPS

for missing men gets under way next month.

The final group of 67 American prisoners, all of whom are being held by the North Vietnamese, is scheduled for release Thursday.

The final contingent of American soldiers, 825 men assigned to the Joint Military Commission (JMC), is scheduled to be pulled out Saturday to end the United States' 12- year involvement in Vietnam.

When they leave, the only uniformed Americans remaining in the country will be 159 Marine guards at the U.S. embassy in Saigon and 50 men assigned to the Defense Attache Office (DAO).

At the height of the American presence in April, 1969, there were 543,400 U.S. troops in the country.

could be developed within months, he said, adding that the City of Petaluma took such action last year and now only issues a limited number of building permits to projects it judges best out of a field of many.

Claiming Las Gallinas Valley is under heavy development pressure, he urged the commission to give him the go-ahead to present county supervisors with an interim ordinance for the moratorium.

While the commission at first appeared willing to go along with his request, it backed off after Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo raised unanswered questions about how far reaching the moratorium would be.

Details of the moratorium — whether it would apply to already approved projects or simply those pending — would be worked out by the staff before presentation to the board of supervisors, von Gundell said.

He added that it would probably apply to applications for zoning changes, subdivisions, lot splits and master plan approvels.

"In effect, we're telling staff to draw up the proposal for the board," said Commissioner John F. West.

Mrs. Azevedo balked, however, saying the matter had not been cleared by the county counsel's office, which in the past has opposed moratorium proposals.

At her urging, the commission postponed action until its April 9 meeting to give the county counsel's office time to review the planning department's proposal.

(County supervisors, on advice of County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, rejected a request two weeks ago from the City of San Anselmo that a moratorium be imposed on unincorporated lands near the city. Maloney said the necessary finding of an emergency would be difficult to make.)

The San Pedro Reserve project, shoved aside a the commission considered the moratorium question, was considered only briefly and then only in terms of its environmental impact report.

A large group of Santa Venetia residents attended the meeting, which was highlighted by charges from the project's engineer, Stanley M. Bala of Mill Valley, that critical county reports on his traffic study are erroneous.

Opponents, led by the Las Gallinas Valley Master Plan Committee, a citizens group, said more study was required on traffic, noise, drainage and density before the environmental study is accepted. Further discussion was set for April 9.

Painting Vandals Strike Businesses

Vandals smashed a window, sprayed three trucks with fluorescent paint, damaged a crane cab window and took two fire extinguishers valued at $125 from Marin Storage and Trucking, 444 DuBois Street, San Rafael, over the weekend, police reported today.

Businesses on nearby Woodland Avenue were also hit by spray-painting vandals over the weekend, police said, adding that windows and walls were painted, including one wall painted with three fluorescent swastikas.

Low Density For Burdell Mountain

The Novato City Council last night designated the slopes of Mount Butdell as "agriculture-geologic uncertainty."

Under the designation, agriculture, light recreation and low density residential, ranging from one unit on 10 acres to one unit on 60 acres, would be permitted above 200 feet.

Covered by the new designation was the Pashburg Land, the upper San Marin area, the Cooley land and the G.J. Garlick property, west of San Marin High School.

The planning commission had recommended agriculture and public scenic designations for Mount Burdell land and the council had been considering setting up agricultural preserves within the city.

City Atty. Clark M. Palmer recommended that agricultural land on slopes be designated agriculture-geologic uncertainty and agricultural land in marsh and mud areas be designated agriculture-bay plain.

The Novato Citizens Open Space Committee, seeking as much open space as possible on Mount Burdell, reported to the council last week that slides have occurred on its slopes.

The restrictions on the agriculture-bay plain areas would be similar to those for the slope lands but would permit commercial and industrial uses.

Presumably that is to be handled in upcoming county-city negotiations.

Unlike in the past, the board said it sees no need for a closed session if the proposed contract is ready for review next Tuesday. Supervisors previously have gone behind closed doors to deliberate some aspects of the 10-month-long squabble, which has led to filing of three suits against San Rafael, two by the county and one by the Marin Community College District.

Snail Eater's Style Pays Off

HOUSTON (UPI) — Dr. Marion J. Filippone devoured 79 snails Monday night in the fifth annual Antoine's Great Escargot Eating Contest. But primarily he did it gracefully.

Grace and style count 70 per cent of the score and the quantity only helps judges select finalists.

Filippone won the championship over local television performer Bob Helton who finished 110 escargots—French for snails—but the judges felt he was not as stylish as Filippone.

Top Demos Join Price Control Bid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House and Senate Democratic leaders joined today in endorsing moves to force President Nixon to reimpose full wage and price controls.

The leaders said after a meeting that they favored a return to Phase II economic controls when most segments of the economy were nder control except for raw agricultural products.

The meeting was attended by House Speaker Carl Albert, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, House Democratic leader Thomas P. O'Neill, assistant Senate Democrate leader Robert C. Byrd, assistant House Democratic leader John McFall (D-Calif.) and Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah.

They said in a statement that there was "consensus that the lifting of Phase II controls was premature."

They said there were "several factors contributing to the inadequacy of present administration economic policies" including food prices, lumber and steel price rises, dollar devaluation, the balance of trade deficit and recent stock market drops.

Nixon Vetoes First '73 Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today vetoed a $2.6 billion measure for vocational rehabilitation, calling it one of several bills considered by Congress "which mask bad legislation beneath alluring labels."

He said the measure would increase federal spending about $1 billion above his budget recommendations for the next three years and said this would result either in raising taxes or feeding inflation.

The veto was Nixon's first on legislation passed by the 93rd Congress, but he served notice there would be more to come.

Marin City Extra Police Try Agreed

The Marin County Redvelopment Agency and housing authority boards agreed last night to ask the sheriff's office to assign an additional deputy to Marin City to protect the agencies' offices and personnel working in that community.

George H. Gnoss Jr., redevelopment board chairman, said the groups indicated they would pay up to $7,000 toward the salary of the law enforcement officer for six months. He said the proposed deputy would have regular duty in Marin City, but would also "be available on special call" to the agencies' offices on Drake Avenue.

Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director for both groups, was authorized to negotiate with the sheriff's department to see if the proposed arrangement is feasible.

The call for additional security for the office at 429 Drake Avenue came after George L. Brady, an authority employee, reported he was beaten, bitten and struck by a chair there March 13. (Although the authority and redevelopment agency have moved their administrative facilities to San Rafael, they continue to maintain an office in Marin City to handle the community's public housing).

Brady charged Melvin Atkins, head of the Marin City Council, with the attack. Atkins has since pleaded innocent to the assault charge in Marin Municipal Court and a preliminary hearing was to be held today.

Gnoss said Shepherd had originally proposed that the additional deputy be assigned only to protect the offices of the authority, but said the boards refused to go along with that request and stipulated that his duties should include the rest of the community.

About 30 Marin City residents appeared at the joint meeting, according to the chairman. "Some persons felt that any additional police help was needed for the whole community, not just our offices," he said. "And some thought another deputy was not needed at all."

Marin County supervisors' recent call for a grand jury investigation of the housing authority was not discussed at the special meeting of the two boards. The housing authority board expects to hold a special meeting to discuss the supervisors' charges of mismanagement of the authority's leasing program in the next two weeks.

Segments featuring the three political leaders will revolve around the theme "a day in a politician's life," she said.

San Rafael Councilman Lawrence E. Mulryan will appear live on the program to discuss city problems at 9:45 a.m.,she added.

Unwed Father Wins Custody

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A judge Monday granted an unwed father custody of a 1-year-old son who was given up for adoption by the infant's mother.

Michael B. Neal, 27, brought suit to gain custody of the son he has never seen, arguing that he had a right to the infant as its father, if its mother—his former girlfriend—did not want him.

Superior Court Judge Jack T. Tyburn ruled that Neal, a musician, is "a fit and proper person" to take custody of the child, despite the fact the boy has been living with a couple who wanted to adopt him.

Corte Madera Rejects Change In Warehouse

The Corte Madera Board of Design last night refused to approve major changes in the design of an eight-acre warehouse and office complex to be built at 200 Tamal Vista.

Twon Zoning Administrator William G. McBride said the developers, Trans-Marin Properties of Mill Valley, wanted to change completely the design of four large warehouses — previously given design approval.

Original plans showed the roofs of the warehouses sloping diagonally from a height of 33 feet to 14 feet, McBride said. The developer told the board construction of the diagonal design would be too expensive, and instead submitted a design showing four 24-foot-high rectangles.

McBride said board member C. William Thomas moved to deny the application, William B. Gilbert didn't second the motion, and the third member, Robert K. Overstreet had already left, so the application was denied. It will be submitted to the Corte Madera Planning Commission.

In other action, the board approved designs of a triplex at 5499 Paradise Drive, the Fifer pumping station on Lucky Drive, the tiny tot area in Town Park, and delayed a decision on a garage to be built at 13 San Clemente Drive.

Magee Jury Looks Again At Evidence

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Jurors in the Ruchell Magee murder-kidnap trial returned to the courtroom today to examine some of the evidence.

Beginning its first full day of deliberations, the jury used the courtroom to examine some of the material in evidence. It was not a court session, and no spectators were permitted, even in the barred-off section of the courtroom.

The jury got the case Monday after Magee's final trial antics when he shouted epithets at the judge and was ejected during jury instruction.

Magee's final outburst came shortly before a jury of six men and six women began deliberations on his role in the bloody 1970 Marin County Hall of Justice shoot-out.

The defendant, who got tossed out of court on the first day of the trial four months ago for shouting "stupid, dumb judge," was removed yesterday for yelling "sick fools—playing this game with my life."

"You're the kidnapers—holding me in slavery," Magee, 34, screamed as Judge Morton R. Colvin ordered the jury to leave court and Magee whisked to a holding cell. Then the judge completed his instructions to the jury and sent it out to begin deliberations.

After four and one half hours of talks, the panel recessed deliberations until today.

Magee, a San Quentin lifer, is "the other defendant" in the Angela Davis case. She and Magee were charged with murder and kidnaping in the 1970 escape attempt that ended with the deaths of Judge Harold J. Haley and three other men.

Their trials were separated because of Magee's repeated delays and outbursts and Miss Davis, a black Communist, was acquitted last summer.

San Marin Townhouses Approved

The Novato Planning Commission last night approved precise development plans for 88 townhouse units along both sides of San Marin Drive from Simmons Lane to San Carlos Drive.

The plans cover the first phase of development of 230 townhouses along San Marin Drive from Simmons Lane to San Marin High School, by Kaufman and Broad Inc.

Commissioners postponed until April 23 consideration of a master plan for Cheda Farms, 206 townhouses and 180 apartment units on 50 acres northeast of South Novato Boulevard, south of Midway Court.

The matter was continued pending completion of an environmental impact report, the planning staff reported.

Allan Associates Inc. plans the development in the area adjacent to the McKeon Co. Crossroads project.

The Novato Planning Commission also:

VALLEY OAKS — Approved a tentative map of Valley Oaks, a 92-lot subdivision on 42 acres, south of Olive Avenue, near Gnoss Estates, submitted by Kaehler-Timmer.

GLENHILL — Approved a tentative map of Glenhill Unit I, a 20-lot subdivision on 4.7 acres north of Hill Road and west of Bradley Avenue, submitted by Kaehler-Timmer.

APARTMENTS — Approved precise development plans for a 7-unit apartment building on the east side of Railroad Avenue, north of Logan Street, submitted by Keith A. Carter.

CAR LOT — Granted Ronald Palombino a permit to establish a used car sales lot at 7084 Redwood Road.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House to consider plans for first phase development of the Pacheco Ranch, west of Highway 101, north of Marinwood.

Lagunitas Open Class Plan Backed

The Lagunitas School District board last night agreed to consider a request from parents of youngsters in the district's open classroom program that the program be extended to the seventh grade and eventually, the eighth.

Supt. Harry F. Roche said that parents, apparently pleased with the results of the open classroom approach in which children work more independently than in traditional school rooms, want it extended to the seventh grade next year.

The eighth grade would be included in the program in the following year under the proposal, Roche said.

The district runs three separate programs for elementary children, ranging from the open classroom to one which is called "ABC" and is the most traditional.

At the present time the seventh and eighth grades are not part of these programs.

Roche said a meeting was set for 2 p.m. April 5 to discuss problems that would have to be worked out to carry out the proposal.

The Lagunitas School District board also:

MATERIALS — Approve spending $400 in state funds for tapes and records for the library.

INSURANCE — Approved a district insurance policy, at a cost of about $25, which will cover youngsters on field trips.

EARLY EDUCATION — Learned that Roche has sent state officials a "letter of intent" to participate in the Early Childhood Education Program, which may bring the district about $24,000 in state funds. The board agreed that a needed citizens' committee for the project could evolve from the citizens finance advisory committee.

Prisoner Won't Boycott Meat

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — A returned American prisoner of war whose diet consisted mostly of cabbage soup for nearly five years enjoys steak too much to join in a meat boycott.

Col. John S. Finlay III of Satellite Beach, Fla., and three other former POWs processed at Maxwell Air Force Base told reporters Monday they have no immediate plans to give up meat.

Mill Valley Neglected Park Flayed

Four and a half years ago the Marin Municipal Water District donated Edgewood Reservoir to the City of Mill Valley for a park.

The Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission heard last night that the reservoir stands today exactly as it was then and poses a serious danger to children and animals in the Edgewood Road area.

"It's the biggest eyesore you ever saw," said C.R. (Rob) Skinner, who last night led a group of 50 or 60 residents to complain about the situation.

The former reservoir, which stands at Edgewood Avenue and Sequoia Valley Road, is littered with broken glass and the concrete dam still stands, holding back a puddle of water four feet deep, Skinner said.

Several children have been hurt in falls there during the past four years, Skinner said, and one neighbor complained to him that he has spent $200 to have veterinarians attend to cuts on the feet of his dog, who likes to romp there.

Skinner told commissioners he has received an informal bid of $1,225 to demolish the dam, a necessary first step before the reservoir can be filled in.

"Once the dam is gone," he said, "The city and county have said they will dump clean fill into there."

Commissioners unanimously voted to instruct Don L.Dimitratos, director of parks and recreation, to discuss demolition of the dam with City Eng. Stanley M. Bala.

The commission said it would put demolition in the 1973-74 capital improvement budget, subject to approval by the city counci.

In other business the commission approved use of Old Mill Park for the annual trout derby, to be held May 19 and 20 this year, but denied the use of the Boyle Park tennis courts for the Louise A. Boyd tennis tournament.

Dimitratos said the commission members believe the courts should not be tied up from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m on two weekends in September, as requested.

Slain Mill Valley Couple's Wills Filed

The Mill Valley couple killed with their youngest son by shotgun blasts March 16 left an estate of more than $20,000 to the two surviving sons, according to wills filed yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

Documents filed with the wills of Melvin J. Schallock, 61, and his wife, Ruth, 56, indicate each left more than $10,000, but their attorney, Richard T. Tarrant of San Rafael, said no firmer estimate will be available until their belongings are inventoried.

The youngest son, Daniel, 19, was found dead with his parents outside their home at 217 Summit Avenue. The killer had gunned them down, then set the house on fire before fleeing.

Police theorized the slayings sprang from "a falling out of some type" involving young Schallock and arrested 22-year-old Brent William Bedayan on suspicion of murder as he returned to his Mill Valley home early March 17.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said today he will ask the Marin grand jury to indict Bedayan tomorrow. The former grocery store employee and lifeguard has already been arraigned in municipal court on three counts of murder, but an indictment would send the case directly to superior court.

Bedayan remained in jail today without the possibility of posting bail.

Board Will View Report Guidelines

Guidelines for environmental impact reports will be discussed by the Marin Municipal Water District board when it meets at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the district office.

In other business, the board will decide whether to go ahead with the proposed Clordina Avenue water storage tank in San Rafael. Two public hearings on the tank have already been held and several residents in the area have expressed objections to the project at those sessions.

Concert Set As Memorial

A musical memorial program for the three members of the Melvin I. Shallock family, shot to death in their Mill Valley home March 16, will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Mill Valley.

During the service a composition of the late Daniel R. Shallock, 19, a rock musician, will be played. "Symphony," which features an electric band, choir and orchestra, will be played from a tape recording made before the youth died.

Also on the program will be music by the Hereford Heartstringers, an accoustical music band, and selections by soloists from the Tamalpais High School choir.

The Schallocks were buried last week after services in Mill Valley.

Jail Given On Tiburon Burglaries

Todd William Ringen, 21, of Ross was ordered yesterday to serve 120 days in jail for twice breaking into a Tiburon home.

Judge David Menary Jr. also placed Ringen on probation for two years and ordered him to pay $76 to John J. Rigazio for expenses related to the burglaries of his residence on Centro East Jan. 4 and 10.

Ringen had pleaded guilty last month on condition he would receive no more than six months in jail.

He turned himself in to Tiburon police Jan. 22 after taking a $180 ring and $450 in television and stereo equipment from Rigazio's home.

Ringen, who sold the items for $125, told his probation officer he needed money because he lost his job the month before.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Counter controversy! Big argument at the bakery about how many sparklers to light on today's birthday cakes. Who's right?

1. GLORIA SWANSON, 74 or 94, is one of Hollywood's most active grandmothers. One of the silent film pioneers, featured as a comedienne by Mack Sennett in old time classics with Charlie Chaplin, Harry Langdon, and Fatty Arbuckle, she has never been off the stage or screen for more than a year or two. In 1950 she played an aging star trying to make a comeback in "Sunset Boulevard" and 20 years later was starring on Broadway in "Butterflies Are Free."

2. EDWARD STEICHEN, 73 or 93, was a world famous photographer. His portraits of such people as Garbo, Valentino, Chaplin, and the Barrymores are considered classics. He supervised all combat photographers for the United States Navy in World War II and produced the motion picture, "The Fighting Lady." Among his outstanding exhibitions was that called "The Family of Man."

3. SARAH VAUGHN, 49 or 59, is one of America's great jazz vocalists. After studying piano and singing in a Baptist church choir, she entered a New York city amateur contest, winning first prize. Billy Eckstine then got her a job with Earl Hines' band in 1943, hiring her to sing for his own band in 1944. As a solo performer from 1945 onward, she has been a top concert, night club, and recording artist ever since.

4. BUDD SCHULBERG, 49 or 59, is an award-winning American writer. Born in New York City, he served with the OSS in World War II and was decorated for gathering photographic evidence for the Nuremberg trials. His first book, "What Makes Sammy Run", was a runaway best seller, after which he did screen and Broadway plays.

TAKES WITH ACE

West opened the three of diamonds, and East won with the ace. East returned the seven of diamonds, and West won with the king. A third diamond went to dummy's jack.

South now got to his hand with the ace of spades to try the club finesse. Easy took the king of clubs and returned the queen of hearts. South took the rest of the bricks with top cards and the long club suit, making his contract with an extra trick.

Who went wrong? Decide for yourself before you read on.

West was the criminal.

West should not take the king of diamonds at the second trick. Instead, he should play a low diamond, allowing South to win a trick with the queen of diamonds.

WEST MUST WAIT

This doesn't give up anything. Declarer is entitled to one diamond trick, either with his own queen or with dummy's jack. The important point is that West must wait until he is ready to take the rest of his long suit.

Sooner or later, South must try the club finesse, and East wins with the king. Now East can return his last diamond, and West can take the king. West then sets the contract by taking two more diamonds.

The principle of giving up an early trick in a suit works just as well for the defense as for the declarer.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one club.

When you have four spades and four clubs, and your hand is worth an opening bid, start by bidding the clubs. If partner responds in a red suit, you can next bid one spade very comfortably. If you start with one spade, the bidding may get uncomfortably high.

FILLY MIGNON? — While owner Ed Carroll (far right) cut horsemeat, customers lined up yesterday awaiting their turn to purchase meat. Carroll reopened his market after closing due to a short supply of horseflesh. Carroll added three people to his staff when he reopened but even that was not enough as hundreds of Portlanders lined up to purchase the horsemeat.

Meat Boycott Pressure Increases

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Housewives squeezed by spiralling food prices are in turn applying pressure on Capitol Hill politicians and Main Street grocers.

Despite blustery spring weather, women and men demonstrated in front of retail food outlets protesting high prices, especially for meat.

In Spokane, Wash., about 25 women marched Monday outside a local supermarket to publicize the national meat boycott set for the first week in April. Mrs. Alice Olson, president of Ladies Against Meat Prices (LAMP), said her group would picket another store today.

Mrs. Olson cited the price of chuck roast, which "is selling at $1.19 a pound." Mrs. Olson said the cut was available for 69 cents a pound a week ago.

"They get it from the packing houses at 38 cents a pound and you call up a store and they're asking $1.19 a pound. I don't think it costs that much to cut it up," she said.

At a news conference in Washington Mrs. Barbara Shuttleworth of Vernon, Conn., an organizer of the "April Fool's Week" meat boycott, said there appeared to be a good deal of support for the idea. Eileen Hoats of the New York Consumer Assembly said her organization has been "positively overwhelmed by support for the boycott."

Appearing with the women was Rep. R. Cotter, D-Conn., a leading supporter of the protest.

David Stroud, president of the National Livestock and Meat Board, said today the meat boycott might "work for a short period of time," but said the long range impact would be to "raise meat prices and shorten meat supplies.

"It will not cause farmers to increase production," Stroud said. "I think we should come to expect that we're going to have to pay more of our income for our food." He made the statements on the NBC-TV Today Show.

Cotter said it was too early to tell if the boycott threat or buying cutbacks already in progress were pushing prices down, but noted "there are some encouraging signs."

His remark was echoed by Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz who said during a news conference in Phoenix, Ariz., "this boycott has had some effect. The price of beef was down three cents last week and this talk of consumers to buy less beef has had some impact."

Butz advised, however, that the "good old days" of cheap roasts were gone forever.

"People ask me when we're going to return to 49-cent pork chops and 79-cent roasts," he said.

"I think we'll go back to those prices when we go back to the 60-cent minimum wage and $1,000 for a new Chevrolet."

He linked the uproar over food prices with President Nixon's budget struggle with Congress.

"Right now the President is locked in battle with Congress over spending and I think we'll succeed. If we can't win on this front, we're going to continue to have inflation, which is not good for any of us," Butz said.

Cotter cited among the encouraging reports for householders the United Auto Workers union endorsement of the boycott. He also predicted the House would approve a price and interest rate freeze proposed by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., and said he would introduce amendments to Patman's proposal to try to regulate agricultural exports and provide for an investigation of the commodity markets.

The escalating prices of meat has spawned some unusual activities.

In Orlando, Fla., investigators said moonshiners and safe crackers are turning to cattle rustling because it promises bigger profits.

Rustlers are cashing in on high beef prices by selling stripped beef at just under market value.

"If somebody said he'd sell you 60 pounds of meat for $40, you'd jump at the chance," said Larry Prince, an Orange County sheriff's deputy assigned to a special cattle-rustling detail.

In Portland, Ore., Ed Carroll, owner of the J & H horsemeat market was out of business again after six hours.

Carroll opened for business at 9 a.m. Monday and by 2 p.m. the block long lines that ran five-deep at his counter had disappeared. So had 3,700 pounds of horsemeat.

His market, the only one licensed to dispense horsemeat for humans in Portland, had received a fresh supply over the weekend. He had closed shop last Wednesday to "take a rest" and replenish his supplies.

Store Chain To Protest Food Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A supermarket chain with 13 stores in the Washington suburbs said today it will shut down for one day this week to protest the rising price of food.

Consumers Supermarkets said it would take out a full-page newspaper advertisement Wednesday to tell shoppers its doors will be closed Saturday—the day it normally does 25 per cent of the week's business.

A spokesman said the ad would include a petition urging President Nixon to impose temporary restraints on food prices at all levels. Store employes will stand by at the supermarket parking lots Saturday to collect the petitions which will then be taken to the White House on Monday.

"The day-long protest is aimed at stimulating the White House to take action against the outrageous spiral of food prices...and to show total support for the American consumer and concern for the American public," the announcement said.

The chain refers to itself as a co-op, although it is structured like any profit making corporation. Its stock is held by its members and not publicly traded. Sales figures were not immediately available for the stores which are spread through Washington's Virginia and Maryland suburbs.

The protest falls on the eve of the 'April Fool's week' meat boycott being organized by various consumer groups across the country. Consumers President Eric Waldbaum said that while his stores were in complete sympathy with the meat boycotters, the one-day shut down was not intended to be a formal part of that protest.

College Student Dies After Auto Accident

Elizabeth M. Flynn, a Sonoma State College student, was killed in a head-on collision Sunday near Pieta Creek in Mendocino County.

The California Highway Patrol said the accident on Highway 101 occurred when a car driven by Clifford Veach, 70, of Santa Rosa, veered across the center line, sideswiped an oncoming car and then struck head-on the car driven by Miss Flynn. She died several hours later at Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital.

Miss Flynn lived at 8025 Beverly Drive, Rohnert Park, and was the daughter of Richard and Jane Flynn of Oakland. She was a native of Oakland and graduated in 1970 from Oakland High School.

Miss Flynn also graduated from Feather River College, Quincy, where she was president of the student council. She was a junior at Sonoma State.

She is also survived by two sisters, Virginia Trotter and Martha Snyder; and a brother, R. Gilliland Flynn, all of Oakland.

Funeral will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Albert Brown Mortuary, Oakland. Burial will be at Mountain View Cemetery, Oakland.

The family prefers contributions be made to the Elizabeth Flynn Memorial Fund in care of Feather River College, Quincy.

Man Booked On Grand Theft Probe

Frank Pickell Jr., 36, of Port Costa was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of grand theft. He was held in lieu of $5,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Details of the arrest were not available from Belvedere police who made the arrest.

Motorcycle Riders Hurt In Crashes

Reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital were Brian R. Mahony, 27, of Los Altos Hills, and Robert W. Laden, 16, of 112 Locust Avenue, Larkspur.

Officers said Mahony was southbound on Shoreline Highway a half-mile south of Bolinas Road at 2:35 p.m. when he failed to negotiate a curve and ran off the road into a rocky area.

In the second accident, officers said Laden was eastbound on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at 10:55 p.m. when he struck the rear of a car stopped at a traffic signal at Eliseo Drive in Greenbrae.

Burglars Fire Bullet At Police

A gunshot was heard last night as two Corte Madera police officers investigated a burglary at the Photomat in the Co-op Market on Tamal Vista — scene of an armed robbery last Dec. 31.

Corte Madera polik said the two officers noticed a window smashed in the Photomat as they patrolled at 11:30 p.m.

Two men had been seen heading south on Tamal Vista, said police, at whom a shot was fired as they began searching the area.

The Larkspur police department was called in to help search for the presumably armed robbers, said police, but none could be located.

Investigation revealed that $90.25 in cash had been taken from the Photomat, which is housed in a small building in the Co-op parking lot.

Important Election For All Of Marin

Ordinarily, election of a director of Marin Municipal Water District creates only mild interest in the area he is to represent, and scarcely any elsewhere in the county.

This year, however, election of an MMWD director from Division 4 — a sprawling territory that includes the Mill Valley area and part of Kentfield, along with a great deal of the water district's lands on and around Mount Tamalpais — is of great importance to everyone in Marin County.

THE IMPORTANCE arises because the existing four-member board is sharply divided as to whether the water district should become a population-control agency or continue its traditional duty of trying to provide water to all who choose to live within its boundaries. Because of this division, search for new water supplies is at a standstill and even an agreement with North Marin Water District which would provide up to 4,000 additional acre feet — financed by a bond issue that was approved by the electorate — is left in limbo.

The "swing vote" that will have great bearing on the future of the district, and of Marin County, depends on who is elected on April 17 from Division 4.

There are three candidates: Dr. L. Martin Griffin, who retired from medical practice as an internist several years ago to devote full time to conservation efforts; Jerome C. Hauke, a planning engineer with the California Department of Public Works, and Ross Shade, a certified public accountaint.

DR. GRIFFIN is a single-minded man. As a conservationist, he ranks at or near the top. But conservation, to him, is more important than all else. It is his life and his religion. Saving the habitat of a red-breasted mouse or a microscopic form of swamp life means much more to Dr. Griffin than whether water runs when you turn on the tap.

Dr. Griffin is in an anomolous position as candidate for Marin Municipal Water District director. He seeks election so that the water district can be used as an agency to stop growth. At the same time, however, he boasts of his role in creating the Marin Countywide Plan, which would channel future growth largely to the area served by Marin Municipal Water District. Apparently, he wants to "have it both ways."

JEROME HAUKE, alone of the three candidates, has served in public office and has experience in the responsibilities that entails. He served five years on the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission and four years as Mill Valley city councilman. He has credentials also as a conservationist, belonging to both the Marin Conservation League and the Sierra Club. But he recognizes that the responsibility of the water district is to supply water — and to seek new sources if present sources are nearing the limit of their capacity.

The third candidate, Ross Shade, says that he agrees more with Hauke than with Dr. Griffin, but attacks Hauke as being "backed by developers" — as though no developer were entitled to support any candidate. He lacks experience in public office.

For all those in Marin County — since the result will affect North Marin Water District as well as MMWD itself — it is important that the voters of Division 4 of Marin Municipal Water District put Jerome Hauke in office on April 17.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Short Assembly Session Merely Standard Practice

By EARL G. WATERS

Criticism of the news media for its reporting on the actions of public officials seems to have become a standard for those in high office.

The modern breed of politicians do not appear to subscribe to the philosophy of the late Harry S Truman who, as President, once observed, "If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen."

Those in public office enjoy a public trust. Their actions are accountable to the people. The public depends upon the diligence of newsmen to keep them informed. Those in the news media have an obligation to report accurately the actions of these officials.

RECENTLY SPEAKER Robert Moretti lashed out angrily at the newsmen. His unhappiness stemmed from the fact he had convened the Assembly very briefly on the day which had been declared a day of mourning for the late President Lyndon B. Johnson. Some newsmen, he said, inferred the only reason for the session was to assure the continued payment of the $30 a day living allowance the legislators have granted themselves.

His findings would seem to justify Moretti's anger at the inference of the newsmen (if indeed there was such) that the brief session on Johnson's funeral day was merely to collect the $30 expenses.

Kahn found nothing unusual about the short session that day. His report showed that there were at least 25 days during the year when the Assembly convened for less than an hour. On one occasion the session lasted only 22 minutes. On at least 44 days the meetings were less than two hours.

OUT OF THE ENTIRE year he found only 25 days when the Assembly was in session for more than four hours. The average hours in actual session per month was less than 30. This divided into four days per week is less than 1½ hours per day. With few exceptions, it was common practice to convene the Assembly late Monday and adjourn early Thursday.

Kahn was giving the assemblymen the benefit of the doubt, for he calculated the overall time, not deducting time out for lunch or other recesses. Further, he counted the time from the moment the speaker convened the session and placed a quorum call on the house. It is sometimes 30 or 40 minutes after such a call before sufficient members are present to conduct business. Further, sometimes when the quorum call is lifted most of the members disappear but the session may not be declared adjourned until much later.

So Moretti's ire at the criticism of the brief Johnson day of mourning session is understandable. The suggestion that it was unusual was not correct. It goes on all the time.

Californians should rejoice they now have professional legislators on the job. In the old days, it was not uncommon for legislators to put in 12 to 16 hours a day, five or six days a week.

"Go back in the house and tell them we want the allowance increase AND the TV set."

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Tonight is when the Godfather cast gathers to honor the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

You might say it's the Family night on television.

The world's greatest actresses will attend the Oscar show in order to see what the others are wearing.

How come all the leading roles in the motion picture industry's most dramatic performance are played by a bunch of certified public accountants?

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Let's Get Incensed Over Cause Of Prices

I don't understand why people do not get as incensed over taxes, strikes, government spending, etc., as they are now about the high cost of meat.

Strikes, cost of government, and constant increases in taxes bring on higher prices of food.

Vigilantes Not Answer To Problems

So many people have such simple solutions to our perplexing problems!

Perhaps Mr. William R. Spangenberg can explain for my simple mind just how "vigilantes" or "law-abiding citizens" with "schedules of armed patrols for every neighborhood," can prevent a crime of passion by a probably deranged or at least unstable person who may have had easy access to the home of his victims as the erstwhile friend of one of them. Also, how those "double locks" would help in such a case.

What might help prevent these grisly crimes would be for "law abiding citizens" to devote less effort to cheating on their income tax and more to the application of such scientific knowledge as is available to the discovery and either isolation or correction of potential killers before they strike. . .

Police, in the traditional mold, have never been able, no matter how willing, to cope with crimes of the type which apparently inspired Mr. Spangenberg's ideas. Neither have vigilantes!. . .

Better Way To Protest Than Marching In Rain

There are many people marching in the rain and wind these days protesting the runaway inflation, especially in food costs. That is a good thing in one way but the women and children on these picket lines in the weather we have had are exposing themselves to rain, damp air and cold winds which in such gatherings could easily lead to serious increase of colds and flu and pneumonia.

Might I suggest that they go to the post office and buy supplies of post cards and every few days mail them to each California senator and local representative. Give them your opinion in force and sign it.

That Baby May Not Be Unwanted

A few days ago I read of a local couple who had adopted a month-old baby boy. At the office where the adoptive mother works "gifts streamed all day, with coffee and cake served at a noon party." What a happy occasion! How fortunate for all concerned (both parents and baby) that the baby's natural mother, instead of having an abortion, chose life for her child and persevered through the few months of her pregnancy until he was born naturally. Welcome to the land of the living, little Gregory John!

A woman who is pregnant and considering an abortion may not want her baby, but this does not make him or her an "unwanted baby." During the past year since the opening of the Marin County Birthright office, we have received many calls from couples asking if we can assist them in adopting a baby. These people have tried all the usual agencies but there were no babies available. Little Gregory John's new parents are fortunate indeed that they are among the few who are able to fulfill their desire to adopt a child.

The purpose of Birthright is to try to alleviate the problems which pregnancy brings to some women so that they can complete their pregnancy and offer their children life either with them or with loving adoptive parents.

Resolve Difficulties; Provide Police News

During recent weeks the Independent-Journal has stated that the Corte Madera Town Police Department has refused to make public knowledge of criminal activities occurring within our town.

On March 15, I asked Chief of Police David L. McIntosh about a possible change in policy.

His response was a denial of any change in policy in regards to news releases.

However, he does admit to a recent procedure change. Now, he says, all news releases are made from the investigative division instead of the administrative division.

I cannot see a significant distinction between the two words, policy and procedure. In either event, we of the public are not being adequately informed of current criminal activities . . .

It is rumored that the Independent-Journal has angered our Corte Madera Police Department. Chief McIntosh admits a breakdown in relationships with your newspaper . . .

Let me suggest that the Independent-Journal and Chief McIntosh meet and talk over your differences. Then get back to where we can once again depend on getting an accurate assessment of the criminal activities in this community.

In Worry About Drugs, Don't Overlook Cigarette

Interest in the stopping of cigarette smoking as a high priority health target has waned as public attention has turned more to other drugs and their abuse. As a consequence the use of cigarettes among high school students has reached the highest levels in history; simultaneously the number of adults who have stopped smoking, are contemplating or struggling with it, has increased markedly.

This apparent legitimization of smoking among youngsters by parents fearful of other drugs is psychologically unsound and produces a reverse effect. However the attitude of many teachers and other professionals reflects such a shift.

Among the newer motivations which have proved successful on small scale experiments, the most promising is the economic motive. Surprising numbers of adults, both young and old, are willing to stop smoking in order to qualify for reduced life insurance premiums, automobile insurance policies, and even lower rentals. Employers have found that by offering dollar incentives to workers who do not smoke, at least while at work, has produced greater efficiency, fewer days of sick leave, and a better atmosphere which more than compensates for the extra pay involved . . .

Corruption And Court Delays Keep New York City Crime-Ridden

NEW YORK — The mire of corruption in this city must set some kind of world's record. It runs the gamut from big-time organized crime to the petty heist of the cop on the beat.

The breakdown of the system of criminal justice, the police and the courts is the root of the trouble. In 1970 there were about 100,000 felony arrests. The courts can on the average handle about 500 cases a year. That means, bribes and the fix to one side, thousands of accused felons are walking the streets either out on bail or their cases dismissed after long delay.

Not surprisingly, therefore, walking the streets is hazardous. Riding the subways at night is considered by New Yorkers to be an equal hazard. So, except for the very rich with private limousines or even in some instances private security guards, life is increasingly restricted, and theaters, restaurants, the attractions for visitors from outside all suffer.

IN AN EFFORT to break the deadly cycle of the nonfunctioning court system and the rise in street crime, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller appointed a deputy attorney general empowered to use continuing grand juries to uncover the sources of corruption and concealment. Maurice H. Nadjari is in the old Mr. District Attorney-Thomas E. Dewey tradition of the tough prosecutor. He is just beginning to wade into the guagmire.

Indictments were returned the other day against three top city officials, one of them being Norman Levy, Mayor John V. Lindsay's tax commissioner. They are charged with engineering a ring fixing thousands of parking tickets. Nadjari believes that it will be shown when the cases come to trial that the payoff goes nearly all the way to the top.

An investigation is going forward into the relationship between Jay Kriegel, one of the bright young men Lindsay brought into the mayor's office, and the police department. As the mayor's principal administrative assistant, Kriegel is the liaison with the department. He is accused of perjury in his testimony before the Knapp Commission, one of the long series of commissions investigating corruption.

NEW YORKERS have had many shocks in recent months, one of the worst being the disclosure of the theft of 200 pounds of heroin from a safe in the police property office. The clever thief or thieves had substituted milk sugar for the heroin, which had a retail value for the street pushers of $73 million. No arrest has been made. Those familiar with the police property office describe it as a cross between a dubious pawnshop and a thieves' market.

In Nadjari's drive, which is beginning to hit at Lindsay men, the enmity between Governor Rockefeller and the mayor cannot be discounted. A blood feud of sorts involving the cliff-hanging claims of the city on the state, it was accentuated when Lindsay left the Republican party to become a Democrat and run in the presidential primaries. The telegenic mayor established one thing — he had little appeal for voters across the nation.

Lindsay announced the other day that he would not be a candidate for re-election to a third four-year term. Background mutterings have hinted at a draft. But Rockefeller is now moving to build a Republican-Liberal coalition around former Mayor Robert F. Wagner, a Democrat. With Wagner the nominee on the Liberal line, Lindsay would be effectively blocked, since he would then have to run in the cluttered Democratic primary where he would almost certainly be defeated.

AS IT IS PROVING once again, New York City is the graveyard of political ambition. Men of ability and appeal have been buried beneath a turbulent cosmopolitanism widely reported if only because so many news-gathering agencies are centered here.

New York is not unique. Other cities — Philadelphia, Washington, Detroit — are plagued by the same stalemate between an antiquated, overburdened court system and the rising spiral of crime. Nor have mayors and police commissioners had any better luck in breaking the log jam.

The remedy is not, as Nadjari sees it, to appoint more judges and build more courthouses. The flood of cases can never be absorbed by that route. The system itself must be revised so that a case will take a day or a day and a half instead of as at present two weeks or more. But so many entrenched and powerful interests are caught up in the system that drastic reform seems difficult, if not impossible.

Head Tax On Emigrants Standard Soviet Policy

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

The head tax on university-educated Soviet citizens wishing to emigrate had its special application to Jews, but its origins date back to the early days of Soviet rule.

Over many years the Soviet government has made clear that citizens have no natural right to leave the country.

More than that, any expressed desire to live elsewhere suggested less than total loyalty to the communist state and therefore something akin to treason. Zionism especially fell into that category.

THE TAX FELL heaviest on Jews for another reason. They are the most highly educated ethnic group in the Soviet Union.

The tax took effect last Aug. 3 but was suspended for a time last fall as a gesture to President Nixon during the election campaign.

The current suspension, apparently to be permanent, follows closely upon the visit to Moscow of George P. Schultz, U.S. secretary of the treasury, to discuss the possibility of U.S.-Soviet trade agreement, including favored nation treatment lowering stiff U.S. tariffs against Russian imports.

It precedes an expected visit to the United States of Soviet Communist Party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev in response to an invitation from Nixon.

THE TREATMENT of Soviet Jews has been made a special issue by the U.S. Congress in bills introduced in both House and Senate linking any trade agreement to the lifting of the Soviet exit tax.

It was not the first such action.

In 1970, a resolution passed by both Senate and House expressed grave concern over the "continued injustices to Soviet Jews." The congressional action joined international condemnation of death sentences pronounced against two Jewish defendants accused of conspiring to hijack a Russian plane.

The sentences quickly were commuted to 15 years in prison.

UPI'S CHIEF correspondent in Moscow, Henry Shapiro, reported on March 21, that the exit visa tax apparently had become a dead letter.

He quoted authoritative sources as saying the law's application had been limited ever since its beginning last summer. It was said that out of 20,000 Jews who left between August and March, only about 900 actually paid the tax.

Ostensibly, the tax had been levied to repay the government for the cost of the individual's education.

Depending upon the category, physicist, engineer, lawyer, teacher or what-not, the cost could be as low as around $5,000 or as high as $30,000.

In any event, it respresented a sum which most people could not hope to accumulate even after many years of work.

In this, as in the treatment of dissidents who do not want to leave the country but protest the workings of the system, the Soviets have insisted it is an internal matter.

The government's position has been that it has a right to be repaid the costs of an education.

As for labor camps to which dissidents may be assigned, it is declared they are not intended to be health resorts.

Women's Lib Gets Mixed Up With Long Commission Meetings

Budget sessions by and large are as dull as figures, while debates about women's liberation are as lively as the law allows.

Novato Planning Commissioner Beverly Ehreth managed a mixture last week during budget study when she noticed the salary for the draftsman, a man, was higher than that for the departmental secreatry, a woman.

She said the departmental secretary was more valuable and should have at least as much salary as the technician. "I'm on the women's lib bandwagon on this. . . Simply because she's a woman, she doesn't get it."

Male commissioners discreetly refrained from debate and all agreed that the job of departmental secretary and commission secretary be reevaluated, with an eye toward setting higher salaries.

COMMISSIONER LEROY Syrop, who said he spends Sunday afternoons reviewing staff reports and has ruined a pair of trousers on a field trip, put in the bid for a raise for commissioners from $10 to $15 a meeting, up to a limit of four meetings a month.

Syrop said because of the long meetings, usually past midnight, his "ability on the following day suffers," and Mrs. Ehreth said, "I have to sleep Monday afternoon (before meetings) to function the following day."

Commissioner George E. McDaniel, newly appointed to the commission, said: "I was surprised we got paid." He said he couldn't understand "volunteering for the position and then expecting a pay raise."

On the length of meetings, Mrs. Ehreth said "one thing people forget is everything we hear is a public hearing," which means that anyone who wishes to speak is heard, a time-consuming process.

Another factor is the commission has had a heavy workload during the past year, processing plans for about 2,300 homes. She said, "Sometimes I have the feeling we go too fast, rather than too slowly."

PLANNING DIRECTOR Brian W. Mattson, who attends both long commission and long city council meetings, proposed having a zoning administrator to handle minor matters.

Then he laid out a workload for the coming year, including reappraisal of the downtown plan, that gave little hope that commission sessions will be any shorter.

WHILE EVERYONE is complaining about the cost of meat, John W. Gates, Novato's resident humorist, takes a lighter view of the mini-crisis. "When I hear my wife complain about food prices I realize it's just a 'sighin times'" Gates said.

His definition of inflation is "That's when everyone is saying. . . A dollar for your thoughts."

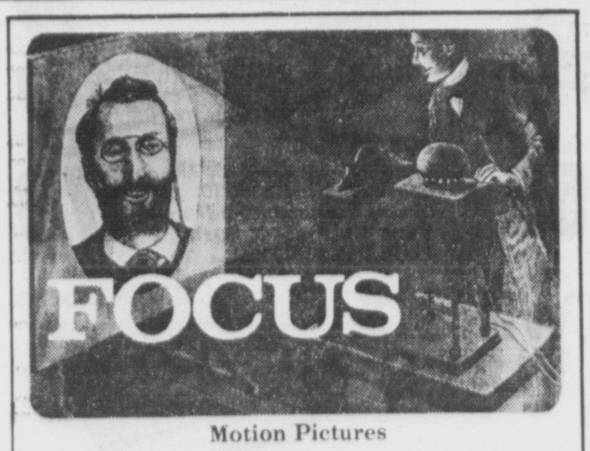
Scientists Find New Heart Clue

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Heart attacks, known medically as myocardial infarcts, are not caused by coronary blood clots but by some other, still undetermined factor, according to a report by a group of Swedish heart specialists.

Doctors Leif Erhardt, Torbjoern Lundman and Haakan Mellstedt, of Stockholm's Seraphime Hospital, said in a report published Monday that blood clots are formed after heart attacks, not before.

Dr. Erhardt said his group is now trying to trace the primary factor causing heart attacks.



Motion Pictures

Motion pictures are in the news as the industry honors the best artists of 1972 with Oscar awards this evening. The commercial history of motion pictures began in 1894, when Thomas Edison's newest invention, the kinetoscope, was shown in New York City. Although primitive by today's standards, Edison's peep show created a sensation. It wasn't long, however, before the kinetoscope was combined with the magic lantern to project pictures on a large screen. In 1905, two men from McKeesport, Pa., remodeled a storeroom into the first movie house which could seat 92 persons. To publicize an admission price of only 5¢ the theater was called a "nickelodeon."

From FBI To Minesweeper: The Saga Of L. Patrick Gray

WASHINGTON — Rumor has it in Washington that the White House is not very pleased with acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray's testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee. There is very serious talk in Washington that the President is about to jettison him. This could cause great embarrassment to the administration, but trying to keep him as the head of the FBI could even cause more.

How will they dump him? This is one scenario:

"MR. GRAY, the President wanted me to tell you how pleased he was with the way you handled yourself during the Senate hearings."

"Thank you, Mr. Haldeman. It's been a tough two weeks but I got through it."

"I want you to know the President wasn't the least disturbed when you offered to show the senators on the committee all the raw files on the Watergate bugging investigation."

"I tried to be as forthright as I could, Mr. Haldeman. I felt the Senate had a right to know everything the White House knew about the case."

"WELL SAID, GRAY. The director of the FBI must put candor above everything else. You not only told them what they wanted to know, you told them a great deal more, and Mr. Nixon admires that in a man. No President wants someone working for him who keeps secrets from the public."

"That's nice of him to say. I heard there were some people in the White House who were disturbed by my testimony."

"Perish the thought, Gray. We all feel you've done a bang-up job. We'd rather have you admit that we had first crack at all the FBI files than have it come out in Jack Anderson's column in a distorted way. The President was just saying to me the other day, 'I wish all the people in my administration would be as frank and honest with Congress as L. Patrick Gray.'"

"YOU MEAN HE wasn't mad because I called John Dean III, the White House counsel, a liar?"

"How could the President be mad about that? If someone in the President's family is lying to the FBI, the President wants to read about it. How else could he run an honest administration?"

"Well, I think it's good to get all those things out in the open. I wanted to make sure the country would know the FBI would have the same independence under me that it had under J. Edgar Hoover. It would be terrible if they thought I was just another political hack who owed his job to the White House."

"You certainly made that point clear with the Senate committee. Say, you never told us you were a naval officer."

"Yessir. I served in the Navy for 10 years."

"THE PRESIDENT was very pleased to hear that. Gray, we have a job for you that is one of the most important in the world today."

"As director of the FBI, I'm at your service."

"This job has nothing to do with the FBI."

"Nothing to do with the FBI?"

"The President wants to put you in charge of clearing all the mines out of the Haiphong Harbor. We've checked out thousands of people, and you're the only naval officer we know who can do it."

"But what about the FBI?"

"Anybody can be the head of the FBI, Gray, but how many men can the President trust to sweep the mines out of North Vietnam? Will you do it?"

"I. . .I. . .I don't know."

"GOOD! HERE'S YOUR ticket to Hanoi. Air Force One is leaving in one hour."

"But. . .but what about my Senate confirmation?"

"You don't have to have Senate confirmation to work on a U.S. mine sweeper in Haiphong. In fact, anyone who sweeps mines for the President is entitled to full executive privilege."

Historical Building Survey Set

A survey of historical buildings in San Rafael is being undertaken by members of Marin Heritage, whose volunteers plan to search out, photograph and do research on houses and other buildings of historical or architectural note.

The group plans to compile the pictures and information in a book to be presented to the city of San Rafael in connection with next year's centennial, according to Wilma Neuhaus, chairman of the committee making the survey.

The volunteers will join in a brief walking tour of the Dominican area Thursday, meeting at 10:30 a.m. at the home of Mary Lou Jacobson, 19 Palm Avenue.

Those interested in participating in the survey, which will be prefaced with briefings from historians and architects, may call Mrs. Neuhaus at 95 Oakmont Avenue.

Greenbrae Area Marsh Bond Proposal Revealed

A group of Kentfield and Greenbrae residents announced plans yesterday to form a special district to purchase some 27 acres of mostly filled marshland behind Marin Catholic High School.

The announcement came as county planning commissioners rejected a request that a 272-unit townhouse proposal for the site be scrapped to allow time for a new county services area to be formed. (Another planning commission story, page 1.)

According to Attorney Neil M. Park, a resident of nearby Kentfield Gardens, the Catholic Church, which owns the land, has refused to discuss purchase price with his group because of the pending master plan.

Park, president of the Greenbrae-Kentfield Citizens' for a neighborhood Marshland and Park, said his group hoped to have the services area formed and a $500,000 bond issue before voters by June.

If the land could be purchased for that price, he said, the average homeowner would pay about $7 per year for 20 years. The area would follow the boundaries of either the Kentfield School District or Kentfield Fire District.

His request for scrapping of the controversial master plan, submitted by San Jose architect and builder Goodwin B. Steinberg, was rejected by the commission on advice of the county counsel's office.

County counsel Douglas J. Maloney said to turn down the project on the grounds a group may purchase the land would be illegal. If the services area were already formed and had the money it would be different, he said.

The commission, however, again postponed action on the project as several commissioners continued to question whether portions of the filled marsh could be restored.

Dr. John H. Thomas, a biology instructor at Stanford University, told the commission parts of the marsh possibly could be restored but at great expense.

Thomas, who helped prepare the environmental impact report on the project, declined to give specific details on restoring the marsh, saying he hadn't studied the site with that in mind.

The project, which had been debated at length on two earlier occasions, was debated at length again yesterday as acting chairman John F. West reopened the public hearing closed earlier this month.

Carol Staley of Corte Madera, a member of the League of Women Voters' of Central Marin, found commission support for her idea that all pending development plans in the lower Ross Valley be compared with population projections in the proposed countywide plan.

She said she thinks actual growth rates are outdistancing those proposed in the countywide plan, which seeks to restrict growth.

The commission directed staff to investigate her request, as well as determine which areas of the marsh might be restored, and report back May 7.

The planning staff also was directed to outline procedures for insuring that 15 per cent of the development becomes and remains moderate-income family housing.

In other action, the commission approved a master plan and rezoning for 52 condominium units on five acres at 5929 Entrada Drive, Ignacio.

The proposal, submitted by Frank E. Galli of Ignacio, also called for about three acres to be rezoned for commercial use, which was approved.

Non-Filers Of Income Tax Rising

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The number of American wage earners who file no income tax returns is growing, the Internal Revenue commissioner says—and "the trend is frightening."

Johnnie M. Walters, outgoing IRS commissioner, told a House appropriations subcommittee yesterday that complex tax laws, the age of protest, tax evaders and persons who believe tax laws are inequitable are driving up the number of non-filers each year.

"The number of those people in the past few years has increased vastly," he said, although he could supply no figures. "The trend is frightening" and if not checked the current $2.5 billion to $3 billion lost through noncompliance will rise to $6 billion a year by 1976.

"It is increasingly evident that the country does face serious problems in tax compliance and some trends that must be reversed," Walter said.

But he said a system of cross checking is now being developed by the IRS and the agency hopes to have it in operation by 1976.

"We are going to have 100 per cent matching information documents," he said. He explained that meant that all information filed by employers and others concerning Social Security, tax withholding and other information available to the IRS could be checked through computers to determine who was failing to file a tax return.

"With this 100 per cent we are going to see a lot of people fall out as nonfilers who have not been filing up to this point," Walters said.

On the returns that have been filed so far this year, Walters said, one of the most frequent abuses has been the failure of the filer to include his city, township and county as instructed. The information is required by the Treasury Department in computing its revenue sharing proportions.

Mosaics Exhibit In Tiburon Church

An exhibit of masaics by Helen Steinau Rich of Belvedere will be on display at old St. Hilary's Church in Tiburon from April 8 through May 20.

The exhibit, sponsored by the Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Society, will be open from 1 to 4 p.m. on Wednesday and Saturdays.

Novato Trustees To Eye Priorities

The Novato Unified School District board will consider setting priorities in a preliminary 1973-74 budget of $11,757,847 at 8 p.m. today at Novato High School lecture hall.

The preliminary budget is $921,628 higher than the current budget with $820,374 of this increase in undistributed reserve.

Teachers have requested a cost-of-living pay raise that would cost $1,250,000 and non-teaching employees asked pay hikes and a change in the salary structure that would cost $130,000, according to Supt. James G. Bunker.

The preliminary budget is based on the current school program and contains only annual step increases for employees.

Trustees will consider how the $829,374 in undistributed reserve is to be allocated with pay raises, restoration of programs that have been cut in the past two years and new programs among the choices.

The budget proposal contains no estimate of the tax rate, which is now at $5.745 per $100 assessed valuation.

Bunker has estimated that state aid will be $536,504, up $1,758,633 from this year and the amount to be raised from property taxes will be $3,817,-994, down $676,842.

The preliminary budget is based on a reduction of from 10 to 12 in the teaching staff by attrition. The teaching staff now is about 450.

Expenditures are based on average daily attendance of 10,-748 pupils, kindergarten through 12th grade, down 374 from January.

Administration, $229,351 ($228,731); instruction, which includes salaries, $7,636,690, ($7,-530,840; health services, $56,431 ($56,431); plant operation $797,-856 ($761,517); maintenance, $236,574 ($240,028); fixed charges, which include fringe benefits) $1,141,155 ($1,098,659); capital outlay $53,292 ($55,749); community services $56,776 ($70,500); debt service $474,941 ($474,941); transfers, $15,494 ($15,494); undistributed reserve $820,374 ($55,692); revolving cash $2,000 ($2,000); general reserve $100,000 ($100,000); and stores account, $30,506 ($30,506).

Theater Trip

A trip for teen-agers to see the American Conservatory Theater's production of "You Can't Take It With You" in San Francisco on April 21 is being sponsored by the Marin Jewish Community Center, according to Yvonne Rich, adult program coordinator of the center at 200 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia.

CLARE BOOTHE LUCE

Freedom Said Only Goal Of Feminists

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Journalist, playwright, author, politician, diplomat, congresswoman, mother, Clare Boothe Luce has been all these things in a remarkable career that has made her one of America's best known women. Here, in the first of a three-part series, she states woman's case as only she could.)

By CLARE BOOTHE LUCE
Written for the Encyclopaedia Britannica Distributed By U.P. International

After a lifetime of casting about in the depths of female psychology, Sigmund Freud made this anguished entry in his diary: "What do women want; my God what DO they want?"

The feminist answer is: "By God, they want Freedom!" They want to be free, as men are free, to fulfill their own potentials and to seek their own identities. They want political, economic and social equality with men. And this equality, the feminists contend, is being denied them by overt and covert masculine coercion.

The feminists would seem to have their work cut out. Male supremacy is the most obvious and massive fact of our society.

All our social institutions that exercise power, generate wealth, create the law, form the minds and guide the actions and opinions of society are male dominated.

The government, military, judiciary, labor unions, churches, universities, communications and advertising media, the banking, production, insurance and transport systems and all the significant professions (law, science, medicine, engineering, architecture) are male oriented. Men make all the crucial decisions for society.

In all our great institutions, whether public or private, there are not a hundred women who occupy high policy-making positions. The sporadic appearance of women in so-called top-level appointive political jobs is still largely female tokenism.

OF AMERICA'S 80 million adult women, only 30 million are gainfully employed. Although women 20 and over now account for one-third of the labor force, the vast majority are working in menial, sex-typed, or dead-end jobs. Women are the "domestics" of the Male Establishment.

The only institution in which women appear in equal numbers with men is our institution of monogamous marriage (80 per cent of all adult women are or have been married). Legally, marriage is the most male-dominated institution of all. It is the only institution in which women are expected to work without receiving any stipulated wages and with no fixed working hours. A woman who enters marriage penniless (as most women do) becomes totally dependent on her husband for bed, board, clothing and whatever monies she may need for running his house and caring for their children. He can give her as much or as little as he chooses. She has no legal claim to any part of his property or income. He is legally responsible for her current debts, but he can also legally disavow future responsibility whenever he finds it too onerous.

It's a man's world, no two ways about it.

The second obvious fact about our society is that, married or unmarried, this is the way most women seem to like it. The married, however, like it better. Given a (pollster's) choice between the unpaid and increasingly insecure job of "married woman" and any of the other jobs that the Male Establishment offers, women opt overwhelmingly for the job of homemaker. Hands down they prefer the gratifications of motherhood, the privileges of wifehood and the status conferred by society on the title Mrs. to the condition of the unmarried woman working in a man's world.

But married or unmarried, happy or miserable, the vast majority of women accept their unequal social status. And when they are not indifferent to the efforts of the organized and activist feminists to achieve sex equality, they are openly hostile to them. A recent survey showed that more women than men accept the stereotype view of Women's Liberationists as sexually frustrated, hysterical, and unfeminine creatures who, if not "old bags," are probably lesbians.

THE TEMPTATION is to leave the feminist question right there. It's a free society, and its female citizens have the right to pursue life, liberty, and happiness in any way they choose.

If they prefer the feminine gratifications and privileges of marriage to the rights enjoyed by men, if they don't feel themselves to be an oppressed class, well, whose business is it but theirs?

Nevertheless, the widespread indifference of women to their own unequal status in a so-called free society calls for some rational explanation.

Why, Women's Liberationists ask, if woman was indeed born to be submissive, did man find it necessary to use brute force to put — and keep — her down? (A very good question, really. Freud in his struggle to answer it came up with a melancholy solution: Woman is, by nature, masochistic; man is, by nature, sadistic. She enjoys physical suffering; he enjoys inflicting it. Altogether a dim view of both natures.) After centuries of physical violence, man finally hit upon the use of the carrot, as well as the stick, as the way to reconcile woman to her condition of servitude. He denied her all her rights but gave her certain privileges. Using the techniques that today are known as Pavlovianism and brainwashing, he finally domesticated her.

Tomorrow: Women's roles.

4-And 5-Year-Olds Complete Own Plans For Sierra Snow Journey

By JOAN LISETOR

Two days in the snow, and they made all the plans themselves, what to bring, what to eat, and in some cases whether or not to let their parents go along.

Not surprising the food list contained such items as peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, pop tarts and spaghetti because the trip was planned by 4 and 5-year-olds who attend Alpha Schools in San Rafael.

The children, 15 of them, with their 12 "approved" chaperones left yesterday morning and are returning tonight from the Viking Ski Lodge across from Donner Ski Area.

With their teacher, Melinda King, who has been approved as a chaperone, the children began last week discussing what they would need. Most of the children had never been in the snow before but seemed to know just what equipment was needed, Mrs. King said.

It was the responsibility of the 4-year-olds in the gifted children's class to plan breakfast and to select dessert for dinner. They took a walk to the local supermarket, checked the prices and selected cereal, pop tarts, juice and canned peaches.

Desert was a dilemma with a decision between chocolate pudding and watermelon needed before the travelers could depart.

Volunteers Aid Mill Valley Students

Volunteers are making a sizeable contribution to the 3,457 students attending eight schools in the Mill Valley School District.

The 265 regular volunteers who contribute at least three hours a week are augmented by 100 part time workers, who assist on special assignments. These contributions are in addition to the regular programs of the Parent-Teacher Association.

The assistance offered is a potpourri, reflecting the varied interests of individuals in the district. Included are instruction in French by a native of France, crocheting, carpentry, candlemaking, creative cooking, batik, scientific experiments and soccer. One grandmotherly volunteer aide rides on the bus with the children to and from school.

With the completion last fall of the Mill Valley Middle School, the seven neighborhood schools now concentrate on the education of kindergarten through fifth grade students.

At the Strawberry Point School, Mmes. Micheline Hozven and Maurice Wahlgren offer French instruction for kindergarten through third grade pupils after school each Monday and Thursday. Mrs. James Doody teaches art each Friday.

At the Park School a new art-science center has been established in basement rooms. Mrs. Edmond C. Kagi, a former high school biology teacher, has devised a science curriculum for the third, fourth and fifth grades, which she teaches each Tuesday and Thursday. Mrs. Betty Cleaveland is coordinator of the school's art program.

The Old Mill School boasts a sports, physical education and dance program, conducted by Mrs. George Leonard. Coordinating an enrichment program for primary students in the first and second grades each Wednesday, are Mmes. Lloyd Yates and Donald Felt. The instruction covers such topics as creative cookery for boys, folk dancing, knitting, crocheting, clay modeling, chorus, carpentry, rhythm, science experiments, story telling, nature and art instruction.

A volunteer art program at the Tamalpais Valley School was organized by Mrs. Harry Allen, who spends at least three days a week with the children. The students make puppets, tie and dye, batik, masks and candles. Another volunteer, Mrs. George Kirkland, teaches tumbling and baton twirling.

The Alto-Edna Mc Guire School parents cooperated on making a playground. They raised funds for the project and spent weekends doing the carpentry and labor for the yard area. Mrs. Harry Andrews is project playground chairman.

Mrs. Frederick Joslyn heads a volunteer clerical pool at Marin Terrace School, which relieves classroom teachers of many routine duties. One father, Roger Rosenfeld, teaches photography and assists in the library.

Also at Marin Terrace, is the district Outdoor Nature Laboratory, where other volunteers are being trained in ecology.

At the Homestead School, Mrs. Hazel Rochelle, a retired school teacher, donates five mornings a week as a teacher's aide. She takes the school bus with the children.

One important job staffed by volunteers at the Mill Valley Middle School is guiding visitors on tours through the new school plant. Tours are conducted on Tuesdays and Wednesdays, with visitors coming from as far away as Portland, Ore., and Reno, Nev. The activity will be stepped up this spring when parents of the district's fifth graders will be invited to inspect the school which their children will attend in the fall. Mrs. Alfred Stone is coordinator of this activity.

Other Middle School activities are the sailing classes conducted by Mrs. Jeanne Nooney assisted by Jack Benjamin and soccer practice, which James Bryan conducts.

Mrs. Robert Burton, resource information chairman, has compiled a list of about 50 people in the community who have agreed to come to classrooms and talk about their specialties.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

'Underground' Artist Unhappy That Comic Strip Won't Sell

DEAR RAP:

If newspapers take ads for X-rated adult movies, and adult book stores, why won't they run "underground" comic strips like the one I do?

It isn't super-raunchy, but it isn't pablum either. But I've tried about five editors and they all say it "isn't for family newspapers."

If they were really concerned about damaging their readers' morals, would they urge them to buy tickets to the Xs? — ARTIST

P.S. Underground papers won't buy because my strip is "too mild."

DEAR ARTIST:

Maybe, just maybe that old "not family newspapers" is a nice way of saying, "Your work isn't good enough yet."

As for X-rated movie ads, several newspapers have stopped accepting them; others keep the wording mild ... which might be hard to do in an underground-type strip. — HELEN

DEAR ARTIST:

It's no fair, asking us to take sides when you don't send a sample of your comic strip.

About ads: newspapers advertise a lot of things their editors wouldn't buy, but they never buy comics or columns they'd be ashamed to advertise. Okay? — SUE

HELEN AND SUE:

I'm crazy about this guy in the Navy and I thought he loved me too — at least his letters say so.

Another girl knows him, and keeps mentioning him to me. I didn't think there was anything going between them, but she borrowed my English book, and yesterday when I got it back, there were two typewritten letters from him — to her.

It wasn't right to read them, but I couldn't stop myself. They said he loved her but didn't know how to break it to Marcie (I'm Marcie), and a lot of other junk. Said he was typing at work. He always writes me in longhand.

Today she asked me if I'd found anything of hers in the book and I handed the letters back without saying a word. Should I just stop writing to my guy (ha! — I thought he was mine) or have it out with the girl, or — WHAT?

DEAR WHAT:

Where's your smarts?

Don't break off with a guy on the strength of typewritten letters left where you're sure to read them. This sounds like a pretty thin plot to get you out of the picture. — SUE

DEAR WHAT:

How about telling your (yes — your) guy about the letters? If he didn't write them, he'll have a good laugh too, and if he did — well maybe he's keeping two girls on the line so at least one will keep on waiting for him.

We think your girl friend is a hopeful forger. Hope we're right. — HELEN

RAP:

My parents are getting divorced. My father's family is acting childish about it. The other night we called on my cousin to get back the guitar my sister had lent her.

When we got to my aunt's (Dad's sister's) house, the guitar was sitting in the carport with all the strings broken. They would hardly speak to us. Why take it out on us kids?

Should we ask them to replace the strings? — DISGUSTED AT THE GAMES PEOPLE PLAY

DGPP:

Are you sure this is revenge, or natural string breakage? Why not tell your father about the guitar, and let him ask for replacements? — HELEN AND SUE

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, in care of this newspaper, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.

Antifertility Chemicals Are Sought

By ELDON BARRETT

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Use of chemicals to control fertility in women is being explored by scientists of Battelle Memorial Institute for the World Health Organization.

"Chemical methods of fertility control have generally been ignored in previous research," said Dr. Gordon Duncan, associate director of Battelle's Population Study Center in Seattle.

He explained he will be working with other Battelle scientists on methods of making women infertile using chemicals introduced into their fallopian tubes, cervix and vagina.

The research is being conducted in three phases.

One study will attempt to formulate chemical agents capable of blocking the fallopian tubes, Duncan said. This will involve developing a series of agents in different physical forms, then producing a device for introducing them into the fallopian tube without surgery.

ADDITIONAL TESTS will focus on the effectiveness of the chemicals and the elimination of possible side effects. Extensive laboratory tests will be required before any clinical evaluation will be undertaken, he added.

Alteration of mucus in the uterine cervix is the key to the second project, he said. Cervix mucus plays an important role in the transportation of sperm through the cervical canal into the uterus and it may be amenable to chemical alteration, he added.

Functional devices which can be comfortably retained within the cervix must first be produced. These may be designed to work either chemically or physically to alter sperm transport.

The third phase of the project involves the development of means of releasing antifertility drugs from a device inserted into the vagina.

SYNTHETIC STEROIDS with known antifertility properties—such as those which oral birth control pills make use of—will be investigated to determine their applicability to this system.

The initial approach will be to use synthetic rubber rings to release these steroids at a controlled rate.

"Further laboratory tests should lead to the development of more sophisticated devices with a range of release rate compatible with the intravaginal delivery system," Duncan said.

Battelle's population research team represents a variety of disciplines in fields of chemistry, biology and materials science. The antifertility studies will involve three of the nonprofit organization's research centers in the United States as well as international laboratories and clinics which are collaborating in the programs.

Terry Mullaly Is Married

Terry Mullaly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis, and Billy Busig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Busig, were married at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Novato on March 17. All are residents of Novato.

Annette Fanslow was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Janie Hanson and Vickie Mullaly of Novato.

Bruce Johnson of San Rafael was best man, and ushers were Ron Budde and Walter Haley of Novato.

Following the reception at the Non-Commissioned Officers Club at Hamilton Air Force Base the couple went on a wedding trip to Reno and Lake Tahoe.

How To Clean Dried Flowers

Dried flowers last forever, but become dusty in time. Wash them by dunking in a solution of one-fourth cup liquid detergent in two quarts tepid water.

Follow immediately with a dunking in clear tepid water, and dry on paper towels. Some flowers may close up when wet, but will reopen as they dry.

Placement Of Furniture Should Be For Comfort

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
(Distributed by General Features Corp.)

A recent business trip to Italy helped me to appreciate the bed setting shown today. When I first saw this room, I wondered at the unusual placement of furniture.

"Why is that attractive chair placed in just that position?" I wondered.

Now I know. And I learned the answer in a delightful hotel in the city of Bari on Italy's Adriatic coast.

Each night as the hotel maid turned down my bed, she spread an immaculate little foot rug along one side. At the end of this little rug, she placed a comfortable chair. It didn't take me long to realize the chair was a convenient place for my robe and the rug a cozy comfort for bare feet at morning and night.

SEEMS SO simple. Yet how often do we really place furniture for comfort and convenience? Don't we usually place it so it will "look right"? This concern for appearances may cause us to waste time and money on furnishings that fill a minimum role in creating comfort for ourselves and our families.

Another lesson I learned on that trip to Italy was the true comfort of a curtained and canopied four-poster bed. The one shown today is a far nicer sleep space than the one I inhabited. But each has a lot going for it. Naturally, there's a feeling of shelter and enclosure one does not get in a standard bed — and perhaps an artificial sense of elegance or security. But more important is the protection from certain natural weather conditions.

Winter in Europe, and in many of our North American regions, can be bitterly cold, hence the drapery on a four-poster can contribute warmth. But in many areas of the world, warm weather brings mosquitoes and other night-prowling pests. That's when the canopy bed comes into its own. You can open the windows, surround yourself in misty mosquito netting and expect an undisturbed night's sleep.

Actually the bed illustrated today is a real treasure. Made by Baker Furniture, it faithfully reproduces the details of rural French beds used around 1735. And whether the occupant is a clerk or a corporate officer, he'll know he's dreaming in a design conceived during the reign of Louis XV. Hot or cold, or climate-controlled, it's a masterful conception.

Food Labeling Not Universal

The Food and Drug Administration's new nutritional labeling program is voluntary for most foods. Full nutritional labeling is mandatory only if a product is fortified by a nutrient or its label or advertising makes a claim about protein, fat, calories or vitamins.

A manufacturer is not required to make any nutritional claims, but the FDA is counting on the competition among manufacturers who make nutritional claims to lead to labeling. Information would include serving size, servings per container, calories, protein, carbohydrate and fat content and the percentage of U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance of protein, vitamins and minerals.

BALLOON FLIES IN ALPINE SKIES

The camera of Dick Reddy captured the soaring flight of a balloon over the Swiss Alps in his documentary film, "Mark Twain in Switzerland," which he will narrate at 8 p.m. Thursday at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building. The film recounts Mark Twain's trip by coach and foot through the Alps and low country of Switzerland.

Premiere Of Opera Next Month

The Dominican College Opera Workshop will present the West Coast premiere performance of Benjamin Lee's "Medea in Corinth" at 8 p.m. April 5 and 7 in Angelico Hall on the San Rafael campus.

The contemporary opera, written in 1970, will be performed on a double bill with Donizetti's comic one-act farce "Rita," written in 1841.

Both operas are under the direction of Dr. Ted M. Blair, chairman of the Dominican College music department, and conducted by Dr. Giovanni Camajani.

With the exception of Blair and Camajani, the productions are completely designed, staged and performed by students of the music department.

The "Medea," adapted from Robinson Jeffers's poem of the classic Greek tragedy, has been performed only twice: in London and at the Festival of American Music in Rochester, N.Y., both in 1971.

"Rita" was first performed by the Paris Opera-Comique in 1860 and has enjoyed a flurry of performances in the past twenty years. The farce concerns Rita; her husband, Beppo, and the return of Gasparo, the husband she thought had drowned.

The mezzo soprano role of "Medea" will be sung by Kathleen Rowland of San Rafael on April 5 and Florence Bierman of San Anselmo on Apil 7. Others in the cast are soprano Gwen Curatilo of Terra Linda, baritone James Page of Oakland and bass Clay Roni of Belvedere.

"Rita" will be sung by soprano Carolyn Caton of San Rafael, tenor Peter Mendiara of San Francisco and Clay Roni in a baritone role. Philip Walters of Mill Valley is cast in a speaking part.

The technical crew includes sets, costumes and lighting designed by Mark Jordan of San Rafael; costumes by Julia Cox and Laura Gaspar, both of Santa Barbara; property mistress, Deborah Giamona of San Rafael, and set construction by Louis Jordan of San Rafael.

Noel Coward To Be Buried In Jamaica; Flood Of Tributes

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI) — Sir Noel Coward, playwright, actor and composer who died Monday at his Jamaica home, will be buried in Jamaica, his personal representative in London, Joan Hurst, said today.

Mrs. Hurst withdrew an earlier statement by his friends in Kingston that Coward's body would be flown to London.

Coward, 73, had no close relatives. Friends said charities devoted to the theater could be among the main beneficiaries in his will.

"He will be buried in Jamaica but at the moment we do not know when and we do not know where," Mrs. Hurst said."We hope it will be near his home."

She said a memorial service will be held in London and that many top names in the theater and film world have expressed interest in taking part.

NOEL COWARD
'Loss to theater'

Coward died of a heart attack at his winter retreat at Port Maria on the northern coast of Jamaica. His secretary, Cole Leslie, and another friend, Graham Payne, had planned to fly to London with the body.

Meanwhile, entertainers and admirers poured out tributes to Coward and his work.

"Any comprehensive appreciation of his life and time is a prodigious task for the heartiest spirits and the moment finds me bereft of any other expression except that of grief," said Lord Laurence Olivier.

"He died on the crest of a wave," said Sir John Gielgud, "and his death is a terrible loss to the theater."

A sophisticated, unflappable wit, Coward established himself as a moving force in the modern theater with a half-century career as playwright, actor, composer and director. While making his boldest imprint during the 1920s and 1930s, his work enjoyed popular success in recent rivals and two of his plays were drawing capacity audiences in London at the time of his death.

Coward, who bought the Firefly retreat in 1964, arrived for the season Jan. 18.

Jamaican police said his housekeeper, Imogene Greabes, heard groans from Coward's second floor bedroom about 6 a.m. Monday. She called the butler and the two of them tried unsuccessfully to break down the locked bedroom door.

They then went outside the house and climbed a ladder to one of the bedroom windows, which they broke to get into the room. There, they told police, they found Coward lying face down on the bathroom floor.

He was pronounced dead of coronary thrombosis by the local medical examiner.

It was a far cry from the years in he 1920s, when he had several hit plays commanding large audiences in both London and New York.

He was best. known for the plays "Private Lives," "Blithe Spirit," and "Bitter Sweet." He gained reknown in the motion picture industry for his film "Brief Encounter," a tragic love story, and he wrote 281 songs although he could not read music.

Eight Citizens To Plan Panels

Eight citizens have been appointed to two subcommittees of the Tiburon Planning Commission, according to Asst. City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert.

Named to the board of adjustments were Victoria (Nikki) Lamott, Roger N. Atkinson, William Lukens and Nicholas Forrell.

Appointed to the board of design review were Joan R. Bergsund, Susan S. Fraser, Harold Edelstein and Gerald J. Elbert J.

The appointments were a result of an ordinance adopted by the city council in February which changes the membership of the two bodies from three members of the planning commission to four citizens and one planning commissioner on each.

Kleinert said the planning commission members have yet to be appointed.

OSCAR AWARDS TONIGHT

Brando May Refuse Offer

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "The Godfather" was the hands-down favorite to win the most Academy Awards tonight. But its star, Marlon Brando, was last heard from in Tahiti and was expected to ignore the chance to claim a second Oscar in person.

Brando is the favorite for best actor for his portrayal of an aging Mafia don whose family is inseparably woven into his underworld "family."

"The Godfather," which set box office records in its first year of release and climbed swiftly into the ranks of the most popular and profitable films of all time, was a favorite for best picture.

It had the most nominations, 11, just ahead of the 10 nominations for "Cabaret," also up for the best picture.

Brando would not be setting any precedents by refusing to show up for a second Oscar (he won his first in 1954 for "On the Waterfront"). George C. Scott didn't bother to come in 1970 and did not accept the award when he won for "Patton" and Spencer Tracy made a habit of being someplace else on award nights when he was among the nominees.

Another expected no-show is Jane Fonda.

As the winner of the Best Actress Oscar last year (for playing a prostitute in "Klute"), by tradition she should present the Oscar to the best actor winner. She has not replied to the academy's inquiries as to whether she plans to attend, and won't be there.

If Brando wins the best actor award, as is not unlikely, it may present the Academy with the burden of having a stand-in for the presenter hand over the Oscar to a stand-in for the winner.

NBC-TV plans to broadcast the ceremonies live, beginning at 7 p.m. PST (Channels 3 and 4).

Also nominated for the best picture were "Deliverance," "Sounder" and "The Emigrants."

In addition to Brando the other nominees for best actor are Michael Caine and Laurence Olivier for "Sleuth;" Peter O'Toole, "The Ruling Class," and Paul Winfield, "Sounder."

Nominated for best actress are Liza Minelli, "Cabaret;" Diana Ross, "The Lady Sings The Blues;" Maggie Smith, "Travels With My Aunt;" Cicely Tyson; "Sounder," and Liv Ullman, "The Emigrants."

A posthumous award will be made to the late Edward G. Robinson for his contribution to films since 1923. Frank Sinatra will present the Jean Hersholt Humanitarian Award to Rosalind Russell.

Twenty-four awards will be made for arts, crafts and sciences, including:

Best performance by an actress in a supporting role—Jeannie Berlin, "The Heartbreak Kid;" Eileen Heckhart, "Butterflies Are Free;" Geraldine Page, "Pete 'N' Tillie;" Susan Tyrrel, "Fat City," and Shelley Winters, "The Poseidon Adventure."

Best performance by an actor in a supporting role—Eddie Albert, "The Heartbreak Kid;" James Caan, Robert Duvall and Al Pacino, "The Godfather," and Joel Grey, "Cabaret."

Living Cost Ups Food Stamp Rate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department has announced that most of the 12 million persons who get government food stamps will receive a cost-of-living raise amounting to between 3 and 5 per cent next July 1.

The increased benefits will cost about $140 million a year, officials estimated Monday. The whole program will cost an estimated $2.1 billion in the year beginning July 1.

Chinese Newsmen Tour Textile Mill, Quiz Young Executive

FORT MILL, S.C. (UPI) — Two news correspondents from China, where manual labor is the mainstay of the economy, spent nearly four hours Monday touring one of the nation's most advanced textile plants.

Chang Hai-tao and Tu Pei-lin, both accredited correspondents to the United Nations, toured the $35 million Springs Mills plant here and spent virtually the entire time questioning plant officials about salaries, working conditions, fringe benefits and production.

The four-year-old plant, which takes raw cotton in bales, weaves it into yarn and then into raw cloth, employs 500 workers, mainly to supervise the massive machinery.

Expressing surprise the multimillion dollar facility was managed by a 32-year-old, the Chinese journalists were told by plant manager F. Cogwell Gregory, "It's a good company and they've been good to me." He explained the firm provides three golf courses for its workers, 24-hour cafeterias and other recreational areas.

The Fort Mill stop came after visits to several cities in Florida and Georgia. Later this week the pair will complete their tour of the eastern United States in Washington, D.C.

Dressed in conservative attire, one in a Mao-type suit and the other in a black Western style business suit, the two contrasted sharply to the textile officials conducting the tour who wore bright colored double knit suits.

The correspondents were the guests of United Press International and were accompanied on the visit by UPI Editor H.L. Stevenson.

On a stop at a rest area near Gaffney, S.C. the writers viewed a landfill project and extensively questioned supervisor Horace F. Smith about the project.

Smith later asked if they were communists. Told they were, he said, "Well, they are friendly."

Terra Linda To Hear Candidates

The Terra Linda High School Parent-Teacher Association and the League of Women Voters of Central Marin will sponsor a candidates' night for San Rafael Board of Education candidates at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the faculty lounge at Terra Linda High School.

Suzanne L. Beittel, Gale B. Fisher, Paul K. McMullen, Lewis S. Pollock, Marie J. Sessi, and Jeff D. Yarbrough have been invited to participate. Each candidate has been allotted seven minutes to discuss goals, and the candidates will be asked to respond to written questions from the floor.

Douglas McVae of the Terra Linda High PTA will chair the meeting with Patricia Axtell of the League of Women Voters as moderator.

Harlem Clowns Game Raises Over $500

"A little over $500" was raised for the San Anselmo Babe Ruth and Little Leagues at Friday's basketball game between the Harlem Clowns and Red Brown's Faculty All-Stars at Drake High School, game director Frank Quinn said this morning.

Led by Herb Seaife's 29 points, the Clowns beat the All-Stars, 88-62. Albert (Cappy) Lavin scored 20 for the faculty. The preliminary game for the San Anselmo Catholic Youth Organization championship was won by St. Anselm's over St. Rita's, 44-22.

PAINLESS SCIENCE

Aviation Class A Magnet To Pupils

By PATRICIA PERRY

There's a much better incentive than good grades for working hard in a new course at Kent Junior High School this semester — the kids who try hardest get a ride in a plane.

John Richard, science teacher at the Kentfield school, introduced aviation to the school's science curriculm, and by any standard it's been a raging success. More than 130 seventh and eithth grade students are enrolled in the class.

They are learning the principles of flight, talking about the basic factors that make planes, gliders and helicopters fly, and the simple mechanics of light aircraft.

In an afternoon class last week, Richard instructed an enthusiastic group in the three axes of flight — longitudinal, latitudinal and vertical — and the 12- and 13-year-olds yelled out the corresponding terms of roll, pitch and yaw, as he pointed to cardboard mockups of ailerons, stabilizers and rudders on the blackboard.

And an excited 13-year-old boy could hardly get the words out fast enough as he explained the way a plane gets up . . ." when the upper camber on the wing is longer than the lower, you get lift . . ."

Richard said the class started informally last year when five boys expressed an interest in aviation. He got a private pilot, Father Leonard Woods, from the Blessed Sacrament Church in Santa Venetia, to come in and talk to the boys.

"Like most schools we were having a problem with a lack of interest in science," said Richard. "At the time of Sputnik everyone was interested in science, but now when there's a space launch nobody bothers — the kids say what else is new."

"But it seems I have 130 children that are taking this class purely because they're interested . . . it's refreshing, you don't have to worry about the kids' attention. They want to be there."

Just as many girls as boys take the class. "At first a lot of the girls huddled at the back of the class — not now. They've moved up to the front," said Richard, who previously has taught equally precedent-setting astronomy courses at the junior high.

As a science teacher, Richard finds the class rewarding from many views. "Science isn't the subject. Whether it's ecology or chemistry or biology (all also taught at Kent) or aviation, it's only a means to get inquiry moving."

"You see, we're getting into restrictions like length of runways, speed planes need to take off and land, and the kids really need their maths."

Later in the year, Richard plans to make a mockup of a landing field, and have the students simulate flights with model planes. It won't be a form of miniature playing around, though.

"We'll be throwing things like wind direction at them — which means they are going to have to figure out a whole group of requirements for their landing, something which pilots are accustomed to do."

The whole course is run on a shoestring, Richard said. The Kentfield School District, currently facing budget difficulties, cannot afford fancy new equipment.

"We're working on the principle if you can't buy it, make it," said Richard with a grin. He's rigged up models of control instruments and plane features. An artificial horizon instrument is simply two sheets of stiff card with the controls inked in.

The improvisations don't bother the students because of the course incentive. Richard has arranged for a private pilot to give the "most improved" students a flight from Gnoss Field in Novato. (And he'd be delighted to hear from other Marin pilots who could offer the same prize.)

And like most educational ventures, there are bonuses, some of them surprising.

For instance, one of the Kent School parents is a flight surgeon. He's coming to give the kids a one-day seminar on flight medicine.

"He'll explain how a pilot cannot drink before a flight or take drugs," said Richard. "He can lay down a code of ethics for the kids with a true reason for the rules. You know that in drug abuse material, so often you're preaching from a strictly moral viewpoint . . . here you can show it's wrong because it puts in jeopardy anyone in the plane or on the ground. You can certainly make a good case for not taking drugs."

Tiburon School Ready To Sail In 'Pinafore'

"H.M.S. Pinafore," the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, will be presented in the auditorium of Del Mar School in Tiburon at 7:45 p.m. Friday and 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

Cast members include students from grades six to eight participating in the Del Mar Drama-Action Program.

Polly Erion and Joy Greenwald, who have directed several musical and dramatic productions for the Reed School District, are producing and directing the operetta. Piano music will be played by Marianne Grisham.

$150,000 Loss Seen From Fire

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Two homes were destroyed and a third damaged Monday in a three-alarm blaze that clogged traffic and sent smoke curling over the city.

Fire fighters fought the blaze for an hour before bringing it under control. Damage was estimated at $150,000.

The fire began in a two-story wood shingle house on Clayton Street in Ashbury Heights and quickly spread to the two other structures. No injuries were reported.

Site Is Looted

Broadcasters' Chief Denies White House License Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vincent T. Wasilewski, president of the National Association of Broadcasters (NAB), Monday denied charges that broadcasters agreed to support the administration's station licensing plan in exchange for an end to White House criticism.

"No such deal has been offered, no such deal has been accepted and no such deal would ever be accepted," Wasilewski, told about 6,000 radio and television executives attending the NAB's 51st annual convention.

Wasilewski particularly criticized a newspaper article by Everett C. Parker of the United Church of Christ, who wrote:

"The National Association of Broadcasters has enthusiastically endorsed the White House bill on the basis of renewal standard and the five-year licensing term ... obviously the White House counts on the owners and managers of broadcasting to take the money and run, surrendering First Amendment rights in return for absolute protection of their licenses, and leaving the public holding the bag."

The White House bill would require Federal Communications Commission renewal of broadcast licenses every five years, instead of evey three years as presently required.

Wasilewski said a speech in Indianapolis, Ind., last Dec. 8, by Clay T. Whitehead, chief of the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy, "was controversial and the time of the bill's introduction was unfortunate, even though the bill itself is a good one."

Whitehead suggested that individual radio and television stations should exercise greater judgment over network news and programming, a remark bitterly criticized by some broadcasters.

Wasilewski also attacked what he called "extremist" consumer groups.

"They are the people who push for counter-advertising despite the evidence and expert testimony that such a policy would destroy the system of broadcasting and, for that matter, newspapers and magazines, were it ever extended to those media," he said.

"These are the people who want to cut advertising out of children's programming entirely. They would require that programs for children be carried while destroying the economic base that makes them possible."

President Nixon sent the NAB convention a telegram saying: "The American system of broadcasting is rooted irmly in the private enterprise system, and broadcasting has been a successful business."

"This administration is firmly committed to that concept, to the diversity that local stations bring to broadcasting and to maximum freedom in your industry," Nixon said.

2 Killed, 1 Hurt By Executioner

ATLANTA (UPI) — Two young sisters were shot to death Monday in execution style slayings at a northwest Atlanta apartment complex, police said.

A man visiting the apartment was shot and wounded, but was able to give police a partial identification of the attacker.

The two women were identified as Shirley and Carlene Buchanan, both in their early 20s. Maurice Williamson, the owner of a St. Louis lounge, was wounded in the upper part of his body.

CANDIDATES — San Rafael High School students listen intently as San Rafael City Council candidate Leo Tinkler (standing) airs his views on election issues. Students Hear Council Hopefuls

By NELS JOHNSON

Candidates for election to the San Rafael City Council appeared before a group of San Rafael High School students yesterday and found them well acquainted with many of the issues confronting the city.

Giving brief speeches and answering questions of students enrolled in the school's "new voter" government program were council candidates Leo Tinkler, a San Rafael real estate broker; Jack G. Nixon, chairman of the county planning commission; incumbent councilman Lawrence E. Mulryan; Richard C. Fox, a research chemist and Thomas R. O'Toole, chairman of the city planning commission.

Candidate Carl J. (Red) Brown, athletic director of Sir Francis Drake High School, declined to appear at the 10 a.m. event, saying his presence would require hiring a substitute teacher at Drake. "The taxpayers should not have to pay for a teacher's absence unless it is absolutely necessary," Brown said in a letter sent to the new voter class.

Most candidates, in an initial round of speechmaking, repeated views aired at a candidates night held last week at the Peacock Gap Country Club. Tinkler, however, spiced the session with a heated blast at the Independent-Journal, calling the newspaper the "rankest" form of monopoly and saying an account of his appearance at last week's candidates night included only the "soup and salad" of his views while ignoring the "meat, potatoes and dessert."

Tinkler, declaring that an I-J reporter had distorted his views, urged students to "run them out of town ... unless they change."

Students, in a lively round of questions, probed candidates' viewpoints on matters ranging from development of Courthouse Square to open space acquisition.

Tinkler said he has not studied the McKeon Co. plan to construct an eight-story office building, two-story structure and multilevel parking garage on the courthouse parcel, but declared that "many things could be there as an alternative." He did not elaborate, saying that the "die is cast" in the matter since construction plans are already approved.

Nixon was more critical of the courthouse development, saying he feared the complex will overwhelm the area and block nearby Mission San Raphael Arcangel. "I'm sorry to see we have to have an eight-story office building" in downtown San Rafael, Nixon said. "That's not the form downtown development should take."

Fox, too, said he is unhappy with the project and declared it should have been put near the freeway to preserve the city's downtown charm.

Mulryan and O'Toole said the project was the result of a compromise after efforts to preserve the area as a park proved uneconomical. Both said much of the parcel will remain as open space.

In response to a question about taxation, Fox said that property tax is a "poor way of making money" and suggested that profits of developers and others be taxed. Senior citizens are being taxed out of their homes, he said. Mulryan agreed that property tax is an "inefficient way to raise revenue." Nixon said the city had held down taxes "pretty well".

Tinkler pledged to work for property tax relief through "thrift in city government" if elected to the council. There is no need for a meter maid near Fourth and F streets because a count showed 47 unused parking spaces on the block at 11 a.m. one morning, said Tinkler, who works near the intersection.

Fox, Mulryan and Nixon urged preservation of the city's hills and ridges, with Fox proposing the city buy strips of ridgetops as open area. O'Toole declared that the city can't buy all the ridges as open space, and expressed concern that citizens have easy access to areas purchased.

Tinkler, saying the city is confronted with a shortage of decent housing, suggested a realignment of priorities. "For whom is this open space?" he asked, adding that talking about open space preservation is meaningless sophistry when a housing shortage prevents people from living in the city and enjoying it.

O'Toole lauded a proposal by the McKeon Construction Co. for development of 27.4 acres near San Quentin with a 292-unit apartment structure that he said will offer units at about $22,000each and "give old folks a place where they can live in dignity."

Mulryan, however, said the proposal — which has already received a use permit from the city planning commission — is an example of "poor planing" in an industrial-use area and declared there is no guarantee that the price of the housing will remain low.

Nixon called the 73-building development a "classic example of lack of foresight" and warned it would lead "to another Canal area." He agreed with Mulryan that redevelopment offers a tool to "protect and foster" moderate income housing.

One student, who asked O'Toole why he "let go through" Arthur Nicholaisen's proposal to develop a graded hillside near the Civic Center in light of traffic congestion, was told by the candidate that sometimes "you have to burden the darn highway" before officials act to improve it. Declared Nixon: "You don't solve problems by creating9them for the people."

Another student noted that O'Toole is the only candidate to have a campaign headquarters staffed by a paid campaign coordinator and to decline disclosure of campaign contributions before election day.

An informal poll taken at the end of the two-hour session showed most students favored Mulryan and Nixon, though panel moderator Tim Madera, 16, said he liked Fox's "down to the people" approach. Another youth said he favored Tinkler.

The council contenders next meet at 8 p.m. April 4 at the Church of the Redeemer, 121 Knight Drive in a candidates night cosponsored by the Loch Lomond and Glenwood homeowners associations.

Corte Madera Audience Smaller, More Opposing

By PATRICIA PERRY

The audience was smaller for last night's resumed public hearing on the proposed Corte Madera Redevelopment Agency project than a week ago — but it was more solidly opposed to letting the city help develop the site for a regional shopping center sought by Ernest W. Hahn.

About 200 persons attended last night compared to 500 last week, when the audience appeared to be evenly divided pro and con the redevelopment work.

The hearing will resume April 16 at 8 p.m. in th town hall. In the interim, all modifications in the redevelopment plan suggested by speakers at the two public hearings will be reviewed at the Corte Madera Planning Commission's meeting April 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the town hall.

Only one G.M. (Tommy) Thomason Jr. of the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce, spoke in favor of redevelopment and the center.

Thomason, who lives in Ignacio, blasted shopping center opponents and last week's move to recall mayor Holmes S. Norville and councilmen Harold B. Wagstaff and Edward W. Colthurst.

"If my children acted this way the simple thing would be to spank them and put them to bed," he said, to the accompaniment of boos from the redevelopment opponents, and cheers from a Chamber of Commerce delegation.

"We didn't elect you not to take action," he told councilmen. "The only give and take in this whole redevelopment program has been on the part of the council and the developer. The forces that have been opposed to any progress have not offered to arbitrate."

Fifteen speakers opposed redevelopment or the shopping center, or both, with varying degrees of vehemence.

Michael Praszker of Mill Valley, a soils enrineer retained by the Sierra Club, warned of potential hazards in the filling of marshland to construct the center.

The environmental ipact report itself "tells you you can't place 20 feet of fill at one time over mud. . . the mud instead of settling vertically will settle horizontally and you will end up with mud flow into the bay," he said.

Praszker, who wrote a Bay Conservation and Development Commission report which is used as criterion for developments on filled bay mud, objected to the proposed method of filling the land by truckloads of fill, and warned that the slightest earthquake would "lurch" the fill down into the bay.

Warning colunilmen that public streets and sewers would be affected, Praszker said: "If it weren't for the streets and sewers I would say God bless the developer. . . but if this development is built you will not forget my words."

Randolph Pozdena, an economist also retained by the Sierra Club, questioned the economic advantages which the environmental impact report had suggested would accrue to Corte Madera through the shopping center.

He said predicted revenues have been exaggerated and said property tax returns from shopping centers "have a propensity to decline" with each passing year.

And while the report indicates the town would benefit by $42 million by the year 2000, Pozdena said that in real terms, taking inflation into account, this would actually mean $15 million.

Betty Pierce of the Corte Madera Town Meeting asked councilmen to explore the idea of redeveloping the existing Corte Madera Shopping Center.

Jack Haehl stated that published figures of declining sales tax revenue in Corte Madera are inaccurate. "State Board of Equalization figures for the last year show actual sale tax revenues going up," he said. "We're getting more this year than ever before."

Gene Royal presented a petition signed by 128 members of the East Corte Madera Waterfront Hoeowners Association asking that a marina site be included in the redevelopment plan. Residents want San Clemente Creek dredged, he said.

Man Draws Jail Term In Burglary

A 37-year-old San Franciscan, caught attempting to burglarize a Sausalito home, was given a suspended state prison sentence yesterday, and ordered to spend seven months in jail.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also placed Lewis Eugene Olney on probation for three years to complete a plea bargain with the ex-convict.

Olney was arrested Oct. 15 as he fled the Erwin D. Mieger home on Bulkley Avenue with a television set, a leather jacket and a rug, according to Sausalito police.

Olney's probation officer pointed out that Olney, despite a previously bad record, had not been arrested in more than five years before the burglary and had voluntarily placed himself and his wife on a methadone program to end heroin usage that began in 1954.

He and his wife pay $120 a month for the program from salaries as restaurant employees.

Kentfield Trustees Cut Budget

The Kentfield School District board last night sliced another piece from the district's predicted 1973-74 budget deficit of $115,000 by eliminating six aide positions, cutting psychologist's duties, and doing away with June testing.

Interim Supt. Byron W. Mauzy said the board eliminated four teacher aide positions, saving $8,900 and two instruction aide slots, saving $6,250.

The work year of psychologist Jack Williams was cut from 225 to 205 days, cutting his salary from $18,950 to $17,265.

The board also decided to quit the extensive analysis of test results, usually performed by Williams in the summer, saving another $1,500.

In other cost-cutting matters, the board listened to teachers' opinions on the district's Spanish program, and indicated it will decide whether to drop Spanish teaching at its next meeting, on April 9 at 8 p.m. at Wolfe Grade School.

Trustees approved sending a letter to the Marin County Planning Commission opposing any extension of Wolfe Grade, said Mauzy, noting that such construction would be necessary to serve a proposed condominium development behind Marin Catholic High School.

Hamilton Airman Chosen For Honor

S/Sgt. Larry E. Huskey of the 904th Tactical Airlift Group, Air Force Reserve, Hamilton Air Force Base, recently was named outstanding personnel superintendent in 1972 in the Western Air Force Reserve Region.

The award was presented at a conference of commanders from the region at Hamilton Air Force Base.

New Superintendent Hired For Kentfield

The Kentfield School District board last night hired San Diego educator Eugene C. Peters as superintendent of the district beginning July 1.

Peters, 42, succeeds Anthony G. Bacich, who died at a school board meeting in September.

His salary will be $23,900 a year, and he has been given a three-year contract.

For the last 18 months Peters has been administrative assistant to the superintendent of the San Diego County Department of Education.

From 1969 to 1971 he was superintendent of the Vashon School District in Vashon, Wash., and previously worked for 15 years in the Bellevue (Wash.) School District as a high school and junior high school teacher, as assistant principal, director of school construction and planning and five years as principal of Hyak Junior High School.

He was educated at the University of Washington, receiving a bachelor's degree in industrial education in 1953 and a master's in educational administration in 1963. He completed his doctorate in 1972 at United States International University in San Diego.

Peters, his wife Barbara, and two children, Dean, 11, and Julie, 7, except to move to Marin County soon. Peters will work at the school district on a consultancy basis until officially assuming his duties on July 1.

He will work with interim supt. Byron Mauzy, deputy county superintendent of schools, who took over the Kentfield post after Bacich's death.

Old Shelter Ridge Plan Is Revived

Plans for housing and commercial development on Mill Valley's Shelter Ridge — declared void after deadlines passed last year — were resubmitted to the Mill Valley Planning Commission last night but delayed once more.

Secretary Carol E. Defenderfer said the complicated project — involving condominiums, apartments, low and moderate cost housing and an office complex — was continued to the commission's April 9 meeting.

Citizens were out in force last night to raise questions about housing density, traffic circulation, the size and mass of the project, the increased load on city services and the resulting need for higher taxes, Mrs. Defenderfer said.

The general feeling of the public, she said, was that a lot of attitudes have changed" since the plans oiginally were approved in 1969 and that "the city should not be under any compunction to approve the new plans just because it approved the old ones."

Continued were consideration of a master plan for the entire development, precise plans for apartments and low and moderate cost housing, and a special permit for an office building and a tentative subdivision map for the apartments. Also put over was further consideration of environmental impact reports for all the proposals.

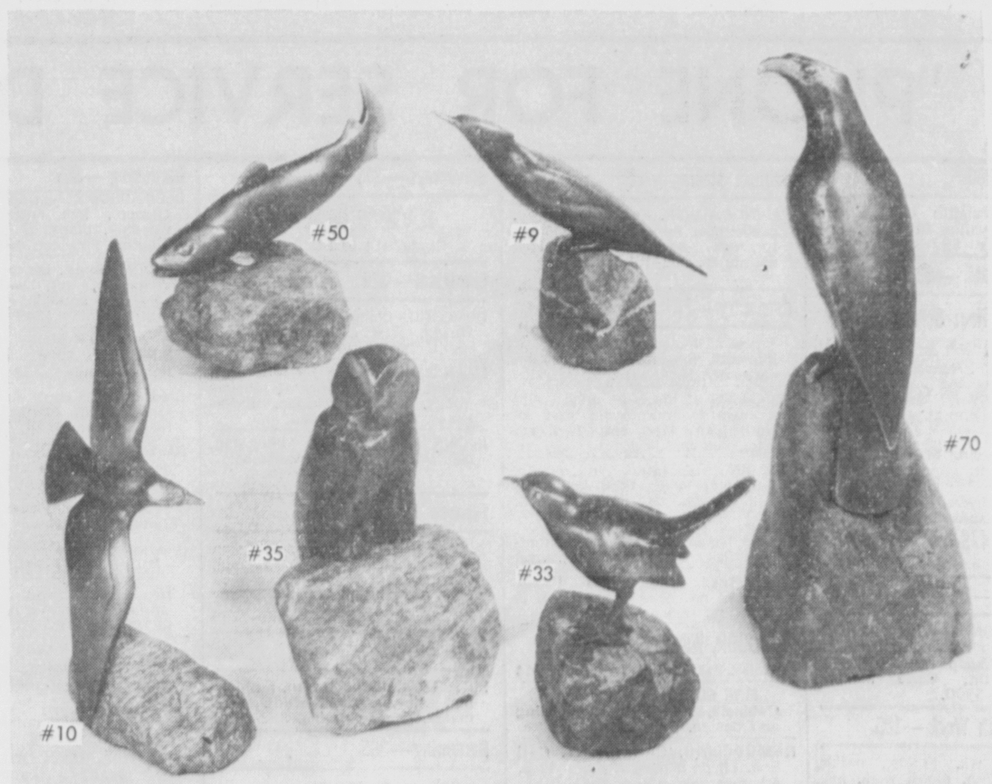
The commission also continued to April 9 consideration of an environmental impact report on a proposal to rebuild the Safeway supermarket at Miller Avenue and Camino Alto. The commission granted a condition use permit to Standard Oil Co. to rebuild a service station at 5 Ashford Avenue.

Sirhan's Brother Denies Charges

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sharif Bishara Sirhan pleaded innocent Monday to federal charges of sending a letter to Secretary of State William P. Rogers threatening to harm Israeli Premier Golda Meir.

Sirhan, 39, whose brother Sirhan B. Sirhan is currently serving a life term in the 1968 assassination of Robert F. Kennedy, demanded to know the contents of the letter, and declared, "I cannot enter a plea without knowing the evidence or what is behind the indictment."

THE BRONZES OF FLEURIER
Wildlife Sculptures by Jean-Claude Reussner



Hidden high in the Jura Mountains is the little Swiss Village of Fleurier. It ought to be more famous than it is — for the magnificence of its surroundings and the magic of its bronze foundry.

We can only suggest the grandeur of the Jura, but we can bring you the beauty of its bronzes — mounted on stones from the mountains.

Never have we seen such beautiful bronze sculptures of wildlife. So imaginatively placed by the artist on carefully selected, natural pedestals that each piece in the series is an individual, unique work of art, which makes its price all the more surprising.

The photographs included here show only a few pieces from the collection which now numbers many more. But you must see the bronzes. If one picture is worth a thousand words, one Reussner is worth a thousand pictures.

ALMANAC

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Tuesday, March 27, the 86th day of 1973 with 279 days to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening star is Saturn.

American publisher of prints Nathaniel Currier, of Currier and Ives, was born March 27, 1813.

On this day in history:

In 1634, Leonard and George Calvert, English colonists, bought a tract of 30 acres on the St. Charles River and established what is now Maryland.

A thought for the day: U.S. politician Wendell Wilkie said, "The Constitution does not provide for first and second class citizens."

Bald Eagle Slayer Sought By State

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state department of Fish and Game has asked for public cooperation in finding the culprit who shot and killed a bald eagle, thought to be one of only about 100 existing in California.

The eagle, an adult, was found March 2 near the Salt Springs Reservoir in Calaveras County. The species, symbol of the United States, is considered endangered and near extinction.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Child Programs Given Reprieve

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan Monday signed an $8.8 million bill assuring temporary continuance of California's child care programs threatened by Nixon administration cutbacks starting next week.

An estimated 30,000 California children are involved in the federally-funded programs. Most attend day care centers.

The bill (AB387) by Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, D-Van Nuys, became effective immediately upon the governor's signature. It provides funding of the programs through June 30.

The funds will be used only if federal aid is withdrawn under proposed new Nixon administration regulations tentatively scheduled to take effect next Saturday.

"Although I am pleased to sign this bill, I am hopeful that it will not be necessary," said Reagan in a prepared statement. "We are presently working with Department of Health, Education and Welfare officials in Washington to clarify the new regulations. If those talks are successful, this legislation will not be needed."

The Moretti bill breezed through the Assembly 69-0 and the Senate 32-0 with Reagan's support.

Beginning July 1, the start of the new fiscal year, it would cost the state about $36 million annually to continue the programs at their present level if the federal cutbacjs go into effect, the legislative analyst's office has said.

PROBE SOUGHT

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke says he finds "interesting" and will investigate charges by a former aide that vacation policy in his office could allow workers double payment.

Hal D. Steward questioned the lieutenant governor's vacation practices in a letter to Reinecke, whom he briefly served as a top assistant. Steward resigned from the position in 1971, making a flurry of accusations about Reinecke.

"The lieutenant governor found the charges interesting," said press aide Phil Jordan Monday. "He has ordered them looked into by the staff and a full report will be made."

Steward, who lives in San Diego and currently is editor of a monthly newspaper, said when he joined Reinecke's staff in 1971 he was told by Peter L. Tweedt, another top aide, that "senior" staff members could take vacation time each year "without it having to be officially recorded."

Tweedt, he continued, informed him that when such persons left Reinecke's staff they could be paid in cash "as a sort of severance pay for all accumulated annual leave time."

He quoted Tweedt as saying top assistants received the cash payment when their employment terminated "even though in the meantime they could go ahead and take vacations as usual each year."

Steward said he was told by Tweedt that the practice was Reinecke's "personal policy."

Steward said he objected to such procedures because they "could result in tens of thousands of dollars of taxpayers' money being dispersed in an unauthorized way ..."

Steward worked briefly for Reinecke as a special assistant but quit with a barrage of charges, including one that Reinecke and his staff used taxpayer funds to conduct an election campaign for governor. Reinecke denied the charges.

Steward said he considered Reinecke's vacation policy to be "unlawful," but added that after it was initially discussed the subject never came up again. Steward said he took no vacations while on the lieutenant governor's staff.

MANSION PLANS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state Public Works Board has approved a $30,000 contract for preliminary drawings of a new governor's mansion after hearing warnings from a Reagan administration official against too many extras on the $1 million project.

The Los Angeles architectural firm of Buff and Hensman won the contract to produce detailed plans of the Spanish-style mansion within four months. The pact was given final approval Monday.

Verne Orr, head of the state Finance Department, said it was his "personal feeling" that some luxury items such as tennis courts should be excluded from the working drawing.

"It is high time that California had an executive residence and we don't want to blow it out of the water" by including items which unnecessarily increase the mansion's price tag," Orr said.

The original $1.3 million plan for the proposed mansion included such things as a wine storage room, small gymnasium, flower arranging room and a film projecting room.

Gov. Ronald Reagan has budgeted $791,000 during the coming fiscal yar for basic construction of the mansion. However, the appropriation must be approved by the Legislature.

PENSION CHANGE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation removing 119,415 state workers from the rolls of federal Social Security and placing them solely in the Public Employes' Retirement System has been introduced by Assemblyman Eugene A. Chappie, R-Cool.

Currently, the workers contribute to both retirement plans. Under Chappie's bill (AB924), offered Monday, their overall contribution to retirement would be reduced and the state's contribution increased.

If approved, the bill would go into effect in 1976 and is designed to provide state workers with increased retirement benefits, including an annual cost of living boost from the present two per cent to three per cent.

The 119,415 employes represent about 70 per cent of the state work force and include University of California and state college workers. The remaining 30 per cent are already off the social security plan.

BUDGET EYED

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan and a number of legislators have been told by Nixon Administration officials that California stands to gain in overall federal aid under the President's proposed budget for the coming fiscal year.

Fernando E.C. DeBaca and eight other members of the Federal Regional Council met with a group of legislators Monday morning and with Reagan and his cabinet in the afternoon to discuss an "overview" of Nixon's budget proposals.

DeBaca later told newsmen that he assured state officials California would receive "about the same" amount of federal aid under the President's special revenue plans as they stand to lose with the abolishment of a number of what he called "outmoded programs."

MILK REQUEST

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Assembly has approved a resolution calling on President Nixon to restore $72 million in budget cuts to the special federal milk program for children.

The program, which has been slashed from $97 million to $25 million, provides school children of low-income families with milk at lunchtime. On a 55-0 vote Monday, the measure (AJR24) was sent to the Senate.

HAMBURGER BILL

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The fat content of ground meat would have to be labeled clearly on the package under legislation introduced Monday by Assemblyman John V. Briggs, R-Fullerton.

The bill (AB935) would force grocers to indicate on the label whether the fat content was between 25 to 30 per cent, 20 to 25 per cent or 15 to 20 per cent.

It would also permit ground beef products to be called only hamburger, ground beef or chopped eef.

"The net result of the bill will be to eliminate such misleading terms as 'super fancy hamburger' and 'ground sirloin' and require the label only to state the fat content and the name of the product," Briggs said in a statement.

PORT HEARING

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The U.S. Army Corps of engineers was accused by two lawmakers Monday of avoiding environmental consequences in their study of using a California port for "super" oil tankers.

Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, said the corps was bypassing environmental arguments against a proposed deep water port for the mammoth ships at one of 12 possible California sites.

"You are not going to be free to make a judgment about the quality of the environment," the conservationist lawmaker warned Col. William E. Vandenberg.

Assemblyman Walter Karabian, D-Monterey Park, said the corps bsically was attempting to determine whether small or large ships should bring oil to the west coast.

He, too, accused them of "putting the environmental questions on the shelf."

Vandenberg countered that the study might show the use of the huge tankers, many of which are too large to enter existing ports, would be "environmentally advantageous."

He was testifying before a joint session of the Assembly Select Committee on Coastal Zone Resources and the Planning and Land Use Committee.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Some Medical Risks Worthwhile When Alternatives Considered

An elderly man hobbling along the sidewalk obviously was in pain from arthritis of the knees or hips. A friend stopped to wish him a happy 80th birthday and asked him how he was feeling. "Terrible," he replied, and then after a pause, made the classic remark: "It's hell to grow old, but I'll take it, consdering the alternative."

Too few of us consider the alternative when dealing in matters of sickness and health. Thirteen girls, aged 15 to 22 years, developed vaginal cancer, a most unusual malignancy at this age.

THEY HAD been born between 1946 and 1953. After considerable investigation, it was found that all of their mothers had received diethylstilbestrol in the first two months of pregnancy for repeated miscarriages that had prevented them from having a family.

Stilbestrol had been used only during that era and was discontinued, even though it helped women with this problem. Many other women had received the hormone and had daughters who did not develop cancer. Treatment for the vaginal cancer was successful, in that all of the girls (except one) were apparently cured.

It is here that the alternative enters the picture. If the mothers had not received stilbestrol, none of these girls would have been born. Since the offspring of most women who received the hormone never developed vaginal cancer we believe that the risk was worth the final results. At the time, had the alternative been know, would the mothers have been willing to take the chance?

ADVANCES IN sanitation and medicine, including the use of antibiotics and vaccines, have lowered mortality rates. Many more people are alive who might otherwise be dead. In this respect, the population explosion can be blamed on longevity as well as increases in birthrates. But underdeveloped countries now are confronted with the alternatives. Their food supply has not kept up with the increasing number of people. Malnutrition is rife and nutritional diseases, especially among children, are on the upswing.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal.

INFLAMED INTESTINE

REPLY

The late President Eisenhower had this disorder. Ileitis produces symptoms that resemble appendicitis. Inflammation usually is confined to the last 12 inches or so of the small intestine, just before it enters the large bowel near the appendix. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on this condition.

RINGWORM

F. G. writes: My husband has a ring-worm on his thigh and it is spreading down to the knee. He is a chauffeur and uses a spring-type cushion while driving. Could the friction from sliding cause the eruption to spread?

REPLY

Mechanical irritation could cause the ringworm to spread. There are other possibilities and he should visit his family physician for firsthand advice. The anti-ringworm tablets are effective, so that cure is in the offing.

BRUISES EASILY

G. W. writes: I bruise easily. Can you tell me the cause and how to combat it? Bruises aren't the prettiest things to look at.

REPLY

Nor the ugliest. Women who bruise easily usually have tender skin and fragile blood vessels. A bleeding disorder is suspected when the skin turns black and blue for no apparent reason or after slight bumps. Drugs such as aspirin may be responsible.

Cal's Research Program Rapped

BERKELEY (UPI) — The University of California's research program has been "over emphasized to the detriment" of education," according to a report made public Sunday.

The report was rejected by University President Charles Hitch, who said, "I've heard this sort of criticism before and I just don't accept it."

Research "has drawn the best minds away from teaching," the report said, and "has been over emphasized to the detriment of undergraduate education, some graduate education and the needs of the state."

The 69-page report was prepared by Lewis B. Mayhew, professor of higher education st Stanford University, for the Joint Committee on the Master Plan for Higher Education, a legislative group now studying operations of the university.

Burton Proposes Housing Subsidy

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation creating a state low-rent housing assistance program to help California's poor people has been proposed by Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco.

The bill would appropriate state funds to local housing authorities that provided rent subsidies to low-income people living in private housing.

A similar bill by Burton, state Democratic party chairman, was vetoed in 1971 by Gov. Ronald Reagan, who said state assistance would "duplicate" federal programs.

However, Burton said Sunday the housing shortage has gone "from bad to worse" since 1971 while President Nixon has frozen federal funds appropriated by Congress to spur new housing development.

PRINCE ON PATROL

Prince Charles, heir to the British throne, peered over the side of the frigate HMS Minerva during the ship's visit to Freeport, Grand Bahama, where it will remain until Thursday. Favored Treatment For China Is Seen

TOKYO (UPI) — An American career diplomat soon to be stationed in Peking said today the United States will consider offering China most favored nation treatment in Sino-American trade.

Alfred Jenkins, the State Department's top China expert who has been named deputy chief of the U.S. liaison office in Peking, also said "no one expects the Taiwan question to be settled militarily."

Jenkins made the statements in an interview with a correspondent of the Asahi Shimbun, one of the three largest newspapers in Japan. The interview was held in Washington and his remarks were published in the paper's afternoon edition here today.

Jenkins, who made a number of trips to Peking with president Nixon and presidential adviser Dr. Henry Kissinger, said China does not consider U.S.-Japan relations harmful to Peking.

Speaking on the two-way trade between China and the United States, he said:

"Trade progress in the past two or three years has been satisfactory. The two-way trade amounted to about $90 million in 1972 and is expected to total more than $300 million in 1973. There are two or three obstacles to total normalization in the trade (between the two countries).

"As you know, the two nations are negotiating on the problem of mutual claims. After that it will be natural that both countries discuss the issue of (offering) most favored nations treatment."

Jenkins said China had considered the Vietnam War most harmful to improvement in Sino-American relations and added that he thought the end of the conflict in Indochina was "satisfactory to the parties concerned, including China."

He said relations between the two nations had "markedly improved after President Nixon's visit to Peking in February of last year."

"As a result," he said, "both sides affirmed that establishment of China's liaison office in Washington (despite the fact that Taiwan maintains its embassy in the U.S. capital would be not only beneficial to China but to both sides as well."

Jenkins said "it is obvious" that China expects some kind of compromise on the future of Taiwan.

"China for the moment seems to be comparatively at ease on the question of Taiwan," he told the Asahi reporter. "It would not be ludicrous if China is prepared to hold a dialogue with leaders of Taiwan."

Jenkins said no one has "any material" to judge on the possibility of cooperation between China and Taiwan and added that the United States will not exercise its influences in the "future directions" of relations between China and Taiwan.

He said he thinks China understands America's continued existence as a Pacific power.

Strawberry Area Survey Is Asked

By REBECCA LARSEN

The Strawberry Area Community Council decided last night that the county should make an opinion survey of Strawberry residents before the unincorporated area is assigned to the "sphere of influence" of any city.

The council, an organization representing several property owners' groups, decided to make this request at a Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission meeting April 11. The commission is to decide then whether unincorporated Strawberry and nearby Eagle Rock and Bel Air should lie in the "sphere of influence" of either Tiburon or Mill Valley, that is to say to what city the areas should ultimately annex.

However, the commission could also decide that the Strawberry area should become a city itself or remain unincorporated.

At the suggestion of board member Michael S. Adams, the community council board voted to send a four-man committee to the commission hearing to take a neutral stand on any future annexation but to ask for the survey and possibly a referendum in the Strawberry area to find out what citizens want.

"Why can't they hold a mock election to see what the people want," said Trudy de La Fontaine, a member of the council's planning committee. "We have the tax base to form our own city, we are very rich. Why should we be used by Tiburon or Mill Valley? This area is being sold down the river by LAFCO."

Stanley J. Gallagher, the community council vice president, said a recent survey by the council had uncovered some ideas about citizen opinions but was too limited. "We didn't have enough time to show the influences of various factors on peoples' positions," he said.

Out of 760 people polled by the council, 563 said they want to remain unincorporated.

In other action, the community council voted to protest plans of the Marin Land Development Co. to dredge in the cove area of Strawberry Spit for a 151-berth boat marina adjoining the Harbor Point development. The firm has applied to the Army Corps of Engineers for permission to dredge. The community council said the marina would disturb a harbor seal and waterfowl resting spot.

The council's planning committee said it has also written to county planners asking modifications in plans for enlarging the town and country shopping center.

The committee said it asked for more parking and larger driveways for new buildings. It also asked that one building behind the present shopping center be dropped from the plans to preserve an historic willow tree.

The community council said that besides its regular meeting the fourth Monday of the month it will begin holding planning meetings at the Strawberry Recreation Center during the second week of every month. A county planning staff member is going to attend these meetings.

Gallagher read a letter of resignation from community council president Paul Trudell, who said his business interests prevent him from keeping up with meetings. Gallagher said he will take over the post at least temporarily.

Two File For School Seat In Petaluma

Dora Eldredge and R. Richard Courier have filed papers in the election to fill the two years remaining on the term of Carleton Reinaldo, who resigned last month.

Mrs. Eldredge has been on the board for 12 years. She did not file for reelection in the April 17school district election, but decided instead to run for the two-year term.

Mrs. Eldredge, 61, has served as board clerk and is past president of the Corona Club. She is a housewife.

Courier, 32, a lieutenant on the Novato Police Department, is a three-year Petaluma resident. He served two terms as president of the Petaluma Valley Homeowners Association.

Courier also served on the citizens advisory committee to the Petaluma environmental design plan and is a member of St. James Parish.

He received his associate of arts degree in criminology from College of Marin and is attending Sonoma State College. He and his wife, Mary Ellen, have three children.

Filing for the election will close April 6 at 5 p.m.

LANDLORD'S NICE TENANT SANS FIGLEAF

A busload of local realtors arrived at the dwelling, just listed with the multiple exchange, to take a tour.

A young man clad only in a beard and long, flowing locks answered the door, invited them in and happily conducted a room-by-room tour, explaining all the features.

"I guess everybody was a little shook up," said one woman realtor. "I don't think anybody on the tour could tell you how many rooms are in the house."

Trial Slated On Marble, Hashish Plot

(I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Three persons arrested Feb. 28 in San Rafael in connection with an alleged plot to smuggle 80 pounds of hashish hidden in marble bric-a-brac are due to be tried May 7.

Phyllis Sue Nuremburg, 22, of San Rafael, and James Mellors, 34, and Joel Anderson, 22, both of San Francisco, have pleaded innocent in U.S. District court to charges of smuggling and possessing drugs for sale.

The three were arrested at Miss Nuremburg's San Rafael home, where police and customs agents said they seized eight packing cartons weighing 800 pounds.

In the cartons, according to customs agents, were some 80 pounds of suspected hash, hidden in various marble objects. Agents said the heavy shipment had come by air from Karachi, Pakistan.

Pacemaker Firm Reports Trouble

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — The president of Medtronic, Inc., Earl E. Bakken, said Monday action has been taken to correct a potential problem in its model 5880A external pacemaker.

A member of the company's reliability assurance department said it was discovered that due to a change in design configuration, there was insufficient spring tension against the battery which powers the unit. This problem could cause intermittent contact, he said.

Bakken said fewer than one-third of the 343 units involved were in the hands of physicians and hospitals and "we have no reports of any of these units not functioning properly."

Petaluma Council Seeking Way To Get Rid Of Parking Meters

The Petaluma City Council resurrected two old downtown improvement plans yesterday as it considered ways of ridding streets of parking meters.

In reviewing capital improvement plans for the next five years, the council agreed plans should include some means of banishing parking meters to boost business in the downtown area.

Both City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer and Police Chief Larry D. Higgins favored the removal of meters, saying their offices receive scores of complaints from irate shoppers.

Most of the council agreed, however, that the major problem would be store employees taking up the most convenient spaces and leaving shoppers with even worse problems.

Councilman Robert E. Daly said he believes downtown merchants should cooperate in funding a parking lot for employees just as businesses do in shopping centers. Councilman Robert A. Brunner said he believes downtown businessmen will not spend the money and cited unsuccessful attempts four years ago to form a parking assessment district. "They keep putting all the blame on the city council," he complained.

Meyer cautioned the council that if meters are removed, they should not be sold for two years in case the plan fails.

Talk of parking problems and possible solutions brought the council to consider the core area plan and other studies prepared by consultants several years ago. Mayor Helen Putnam directed that plans be removed from dusty shelves so recommendations can be considered along with the possible removal of parking meters.

In other discussion, the council heard that the ambulance service operated by the fire department is self-supporting since rate increases went into effect last year.

The council directed Meyer to keep abreast of ambulance figures since it may be more practical to turn the operation over to private enterprise as the city grows. Meyer said Petaluma is one of the few cities in the state offering ambulance service.

Fire Chief Joseph E. Ellwood said increased state requirements on ambulance attendants and equipment may drive up the cost of the service in the next few years.

A study three years ago by a private firm showed the quality of service could not be provided at the same price charged by the city.

A's Finley Predicts Title; Blue In Fold

Combined AP & UPI

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Oakland Athletics pitcher Vida Blue has signed a 1973 baseball contract, prompting owner Charles O. Finley to predict the A's will win their second straight world championship.

"You know I wouldn't have signed unless I was happy," Blue told a news conference here late Monday night. "I hope I live up to my potential."

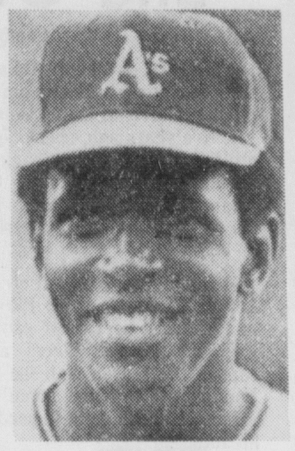
It ended a second annual holdout for the 1971 American League's Most Valuable Player and Cy Young Award winner. Contract terms were not disclosed, but the salary was believed somewhere between the $51,000 renewal contract the lefthander was offered March 10 and the $63,000 he was asking.

"Now that we've signed Vida, we have the best team in baseball," said Finley, "I predict another world championship for the Oakland A's."

The agreement was reached in a five-hour meeting here between Finley and Blue's attorney, Robert J. Gerst, of Los Angeles.

Blue said he missed the first two hours because he wanted to watch the NCAA basketball finals.

Blue was 6-10 last season after holding out until May 2 and getting his first start May 28. The previous year he was 24-8.



VIDA BLUE
Signs pact

Gerst, who was Blue's chief negotiator in 1972, said he was not an active party in this year's negotiations.

Finley said he received three trade offers Monday for Blue, including one which was "fabulous." He declined to say which clubs made the offers. He said he came "Damn close to trading Blue."

Blue showed up late for spring training, but has worked out consistently the past two weeks without a signed contract.

The A's traded the pair to the Indians last weekend, and both figure to start for Tribe manager Ken Aspremente.

Ray Fesse, the former All-Star catcher acquired by baseball's world champions in the deal, was scheduled to make his second exhibition appearance today for the A's.

Fesse was given Monday off and got to watch his new teammates beat San Diego 10-1 in Mesa. John "Blue Moon" Odom pitched seven strong innings and Darold Knowles shut out the Padres over the last two.

Sal Bando had his biggest day of the exhibition season with five runs batted in. He homered and added two singles in the 11-hit A's attack. Angel Mangual also homered for Oakland and Nate Colbert knocked one over the fence for the only San Diego run.

Odom's strong showing followed Jim "Catfish" Hunter's shutout pitching of a day before. Manager Dick Williams plans to pitch Hunter in the April 6 season opener, and Odom may be his second game hurler.

Blue's Signing Is No Surprise

That Vida Blue signed his contract with the Oakland A's yesterday was no surprise to me. After spending 20 minutes talking to him last Saturday in the A's clubhouse at Mesa, Ariz., it became very apparent to me he wasn't the least bit worried about the stillness of his negotiations with A's owner Charles O. Finley.

At that time, Blue, a very calm and easy going individual, said, "I haven't talked to him in two weeks but I'm not worried about it. I'm a veteran at this thing now," making one think back to last year when his holdout lasted through a good part of the season.

Vida had just pitched four innings of an exhibition game against the Chicago Cubs and was less than overpowering, giving up six hits and three runs, hitting a batter and walking two others, and striking out three. While the game was still being played on the field, Vida was shaving and getting ready to shower in the nearly empty clubhouse. His work for the day was done.

"WE HAVE JUST had a difference of opinion on the salary I should be making," Blue said between neat strokes with a razor blade. "I'm not trying to take advantage of Mr. Finley and I don't think he should take advantage of me."

Blue said the salary squabble was just "one" of the main reasons Finley and he were not seeing eye-to-eye. The other was "just a major gripe that I have." At first Blue said he wouldn't like to comment on that gripe, but when the word "respect" came into our conversation, you knew that was what it was all about.

Blue said he woudl like to be treated with the same respect that Finley demands from all those around him. "I would like to be treated like a man." It didn't sound like too wild a request to me.

On the subject of possible trades that were flying through the mill, Blue said it "wouldn't be the end of the world" if he were to be traded to another ball club.

"I'M WILLING to make the adjustment. I like Oakland, I like this ball club, but if I'm traded, I'm traded."

The conversation with Blue was less than two hours after A's catcher Dave Duncan, also a holdout demanding more money, was traded to Cleveland, part of a four-man deal which had A's Duncan and outfielder George Hendrick going to the Indians for catcher Ray Fosse and shortstop Jack Heidemann. Did Blue think Finley would follow that by trading him to some far off island such as Texas or Milwaukee? He didn't seem to be the least bit worried.

During yesterday's press conference in Phoenix, Finley was quoted by UPI as saying, "I came damn close to trading Blue." I don't think the trade possibility was going to get past the talking stage with Finley. He's a very stubborn man, but he is not dumb.

BLUE HAD BEEN quoted a few weeks ago as saying he would play this season even if he hadn't signed a contract and that possibily he would challenge baseball's reserve clause. But in our chat last Saturday he said, "As of now, if I am not signed on April 6 (A's first game against Minnesota) I will not be playing." Then he grinned, and it was evident he expected to be signed in time for the start of the season.

Since Blue had been thinking in terms of $63,000 and Finley in terms closer to $51,000, it's fair to assume the final figure probably came to around $55,000. But probably, both parties to the signing treated each other with respect. That's the important thing.

Two Giants Hobbling On Sore Ankles

Combined AP & UPI

PHOENIX, Ariz. — The San Francisco Giants and California Angels, who have had only two days to cool down from their brawl in Palm Springs, open a two-game series here today.

Two of the Giants' third base candidates, Al Gallagher and Dave Kingman, are hobbling on sprained ankles. But they were hurt since the fight with the Angels in Saturday's exhibition game.

Kingman hurt his right ankle Monday as the Giants beat the San Diego Padres 9-5 here in a game between the teams' "B" squads. Gallagher was hurt a day earlier in a game against Cleveland.

The minor injuries to Kingman and Gallagher should give Ed Goodson more time in his late spring training bid to win the third base job.

Sam McDowell, the left-hander who is trying to come back from an injury-filled baseball season, pitched two innings Monday and allowed one run. He has been on medication for his sore back and said after his latest work he was "showing signs of improvement."

Owner Horace Stoneham watched McDowell and he liked what he saw.

"Sam is getting better every time out," said Stoneham. "He was throwing hard and that is encouraging. It's only a matter now of his leveling off and then we'll know how high that level will be."

McDowell, who had talked of quitting the game just a few weeks ago, also was encouraged.

"I now can say that I'm looking forward to having a helluva season," he said. "I couldn't say that until today."

Ron Bryant went the first seven and then McDowell showed his best stuff in the final two innings although the blistering fast ball of a few seasons ago still was not in evidence.

ASSISTANT COACH

A New Baseball Career For Novatan Tom Corder

By RON LENT

The 24-year-old Marinite is helping Novato High School head coach Marlin Olsen direct diamond fortunes after completing a brief career in professional baseball.

The 6-foot-1, 175-pound athlete returns to the school where he starred in football, basketball and, of course, baseball. "I'm glad to be back. I've always wanted to coach, and this is a great place to do it."

Olsen, a counselor and teacher at College of Marin, and Corder, a 1970 advertising graduate from San Jose State, are guiding an enthusiastic Hornet team that has accepted the expertise of its coaches. "It's their team, and they know it. I just help show them how to perform the basics."

Corder, the players realize, is well qualified to teach such skills as batting, base running, throwing and fielding. "The kids respect a guy who has been through it (professional baseball). They listen."

And they should, because the clean-cut redhead has travelled in the minor league chain of the Los Angeles Dodgers as an infielder.

Although Corder stresses, "I would do it over again . . . and I really enjoyed it," he admits that professional baseball is a job. "You play 140 games a year from April 15 to Sept. 1. When you do this every day, you must look at it as a job. But you don't stay on a job which has no future. That is why I left pro baseball and didn't report to spring training this year.

"I could probably play three or four more years before I reach the end of the line, but I would rather establish my career, have a family and own a home. This is what I'm going to be doing now. I don't want to waste those three or four years inbetween.

"Why wait three or four years when you see a dead end. I could play only as long as the front office wanted me. You play as long as you fill their needs." Corder adds that it was possible that he might have made it to the major leagues at shortstop, his original position, but the Dodgers shuffled him to third base.

Defensively, Corder says he met the requirements, but "I just don't have the kind of batting power you need at third base. You need a guy who can hit 25 home runs and bat in something like a 100 runs a season. I'm a line-drive hitter. I hit well for a shortstop or a second baseman but not as a third baseman."

Corder started at the Dodgers' Ogden, Utah farm club in June of 1970 and played the next two seasons in Bakersfield. He was at his accustomed shortstop post in Ogden but moved to third in Bakersfield. He didn't like it that well. "But I played at third and did the best I could."

In his first of two years at Bakersfield, Corder batted .285 in the 1971 season and was second on the club in runs batted in with "about 65" while hitting seventh in the order.

The following spring, Corder hit "about .450" in spring training, but I was sent back to Bakersfield. No one told me why."

That season, Corder was platooned at third and hit only .215. "I got to play only against left-handers. And I did some pinch-hitting. You can't do that . . . it kills you."

Despite the platooning, Corder is not embittered by it all. "It's just the breaks. The age factor also contributed to it. The fact that I came out of college at 21, while a lot of other guys were starting their careers at 18, hurt my career.

Ex-Baseball Great George Sisler Dies

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Baseball Hall of Famer George Sisler, who twice batted over .400 before being victimized by a serious eye affliction, died Monday, two days after his 80th birthday.

He died at St. Mary's health center where he had been a patient for eight days. His family declined to give the exact cause of his death, but hospital officials said he was in a "generally rundown condition."

Sisler, who was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1939, had an active interest in baseball until his death. He was serving as a "consultant" for the Pittsburgh Pirates before his hospitalization.

Sisler, who was born March 24, 1893, at Manchester, Ohio, was nicknamed "Gorgeous George" because of his all-around abilities as a hitter and infielder. He compiled a lifetime batting average of .340 over 16 seasons, winning the American League batting championship twice with a .407 in 1920 and .420 in 1922.

In 1922 he hit in 41 straight games — the best until Joe Dimaggio's 56-game streak in 1941. But after 1922 season, Sisler had to sit out the entire next season because of his eye ailment — an affliction doctors at times said threatened blindness.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, three sons, 10 grandchildren and three greatgrandchildren. Two of his sons also played in the big leagues.

Ty Cobb and Rogers Hornsby, fellow Hall of Famers, are the only players in baseball history who batted more than .400 three times and the .422 mark compiled by Nap Lajoie in 1901 and the .424 average by Hornsby in

UCLA Reign: No End Seen

Walton's 44 Annihilate Memphis State Cagers

By FRED McMANE

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Unless Bill Walton is wearing a professional basketball uniform next season, the University of California at Los Angeles reign as kingpin of the college game is likely to continue.

That's the sad fact of the matter for all the major college coaches who were in the stands Monday night and watched the 6-foot-11 Bruin center singlehandedly annihilate the Memphis State Tigers.

Walton proved why he is the No. 1 gate attraction in college ball by scoring a championship game record 44 points while leading the Bruins to an 87-66 victory over the Tigers for a seventh straight National Collegiate Athletic Association title.

Never in the history of the NCAA tournament has a player been so devastating. He hit on 21-of-22 shots, collected 13 rebounds and in general made life miserable for the Memphis State players, who though beaten badly in the final score, stayed close to the Bruins for 33 minutes. He was named the tourney's most valuable player.

"Walton is about as physical a big man as I've ever seen," said Memphis State Coach Gene Bartow. "He did so many things well that we just couldn't stop him. He's super, the best collegiate player I've ever seen. We wanted to force him out more, but he was too physical. It got to be a shoving match and he was too good."

Most of the damage Walton inflicted on the smaller Tigers came on short turn-around bank jump shots and easy tap-ins off high lob passes from guard Greg Lee. The Tigers, with no player bigger than 6-9, were completely flustered by the lobs as Lee wound up with 14 assists.

"We didn't play Walton well," said Bartow in a classic understatement. "If we had to play him again we'd try and force him out but let him have the ball and make him shoot the 13-footer or so. But he's stronger than I thought, too strong to force out."

Despite Walton's efforts, though, Memphis State stayed close to the Bruins until the last seven and a half minutes of play. Larry Finch, with 29 points, and Larry Kenon, with 20, kept the Tigers in contention until the Bruins finally wore them down.

"We took the fight to 'em and they were better," said Bartow. "UCLA is a super, super team with fine talent in addition to Walton. We just ran out of gas."

While Kenon refused to comment on the game or the exploits of Walton, Finch conceded that there was something extra special about the redheaded center from La Mesa, Calif.

"He is one super basketball player," said Finch, who wound up his career as the No. 1 scorer in Memphis State histo-

Warriors To Host Lakers Tomorrow

Combined AP & UPI

OAKLAND — Following a 120-113 loss to Phoenix, the Golden State Warriors will close out their regular National Basketball Association schedule tomorrow against the Los Angeles Lakers. But it may not be the last time the Lakers and Warriors duel this year.

The Warriors, in second place behind the Lakers, are scheduled to meet either Los Angeles or the Milwaukee Bucks in the first round of playoffs, depending on which team has the best won-lost percentage. The Lakers currently are .010 per centage points ahead of the Bucks but that could change if the Lakers lose and Bucks win Wednesday.

In Monday's loss to Phoenix, the Suns trailed by 15 points in the secon half before overtaking the Warriors permanently in the last 1:35 of the game. Dick Van Arsdale sank a pair of free throws to put Phoenix ahead and Connie Hawkins added a field goal.

Rick Barry had 32 for the Warriors but nobody else got more than Jim Barnett's 18 and Jeff Mullins 17.

Meanwhile, Connie Hawkins scored 29 for Phoenix, Clem Haskins 24 and Dick Van Arsdale 21 in a balanced Suns' attack.

The Warriors had a 62-57 halftime lead after being as many as 15 ahead during the second period. But Haskins led the Phoenix comeback in the third period, and Phoenix ended that Stanza with a 93-92 advantage.

It was 114-112 Warriors with 2:47 to go when the Suns ran off eight unanswered points to pull out the victory.

USF Cage Coach Gaillard Has A Long Beach Offer

Combined AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — Coach Bob Gaillard of the University of San Francisco is under consideration for the coaching post vacated last week at Long Beach State.

A USF spokesman said yesterday Gaillard would travel to Long Beach today to discuss an offer to replace the 49ers' departed coach Jerry Tarkanian, who is now at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas.

Terms of the offer were not disclosed.

Gaillard, 32, came to USF in 1968 as a freshman coach and had an overall mark of 39-8. He took over as head coach midway through the 1970-71 season and since then has compiled a record of 53-25, including back-to-back West Coast Athletic Conference championships.

He was named WCAC and Northern California Coach of the Year in 1972.

This past season the club was 23-5 and finished second in the far west regionals after defeating third-ranked Long Beach State 77-67 to earn the right to meet UCLA, the eventual national champions.

ST. LOUIS — Bob Sherwin, Army's leading scorer for the past two seasons, yesterday was named winner of the Frances P. Naismith Hall of Fame award as the outstanding player in the nation under six feet tall.

Sherwin, a 5-foot-11 guard, finished his varsity career as the fourth leading scorer in Army history.

Football

LOS ANGELES — Attorneys for Los Angeles Rams football player Lance Rentzel, charged with possession of marijuana and codeine, were turned down in their bid yesterday to have the drug charges dropped.

Attorneys for the former Dallas Cowboys star claimed authorities obtained a search warrant to go through Rentzel's home without sufficient cause.

Rentzel and film producer William S. Belasco were indicted by the county Grand Jury in January after authorities turned up quantities of illegal drugs at both their homes.

Basketball

CINCINNATI — Xavier University head basketball coach Dick Campbell, who has a lifetime coach record of 275-156, resigned yesterday. The Musketeers suffered through a 3-23 record this season.

Tennis

ST. LOUIS — Unseeded Cliff Drysdale of South Africa upset Australian Colin Dibley, 6-4, 7-6, in first round action at the Holton Classic.

SLICK MOVE — UCLA's Bill Walton drove around Memphis State's Larry Kenon (35) for a lay-up in the first half of the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball championship game last night in St. Louis. Walton went on to score 44 points in leading UCLA to a seventh consecutive NCAA title. (UPI Telephoto)

McLain Faces End Of Career

Combined AP & UPI

ATLANTA — Denny McLain, who was baseball's premier pitcher and a 31-game winner just five years ago, speaks quietly about his latest setback — placement on waivers by the Atlanta Braves — and hints his playing days may be nearing an end.

McLain, the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1968 when he won 31 games with the Detroit Tigers and capped the season with the Cy Young Award, flew home to Atlanta Monday night to ponder his future.

The Braves had announced earlier in the day they were placing McLain on waivers for the purpose of giving the right-hander his unconditional release.

"I don't know what to say," McLain mused. "It comes as a shock.

"A couple of clubs are supposed to get in touch, but I don't know who they are or even if I'll stay in baseball. If I don't, I'd like to have a radio-TV job. I had my own show in Washington for a cuple of years and like it very much."

McLain added, "If I stay in baseball as something other than a player, I'd like to be a pitching coach in AA or AAA."

The New York Mets got the best news of the teams that played in exhibition games Monday. The Mets got a two-run homer from Willie Mays, his third of the spring, and a strong, seven-inning, four-hit pitching effort from Jerry Koosman to defeat the Braves 5-2. Koosman retired 16 of the last 17 men he faced after giving up two unearned runs in the second inning.

In other games, Roy White's ninth-inning homer lifted the New York Yankees over Kansas City 4-3, four hits by Cesar Geronimo helped Cincinnati beat Philadelphia 8-4, Rico Carty had three hits as Texas whipped Baltimore 6-4 and a 12-run second inning carried Houston over Detroit 15-9.

The Chicago White Sox defeated Pittsburgh 8-3, the Cubs beat California 7-1, Oakland whipped San Diego 10- 1, St. Louis nipped Boston 3-2, Montreal edged Minnesota 9-8 in 10 innings and Cleveland defeated Milwaukee 8-1.

IN GREENSBORO OPEN

Sam Snead 'Ready' For Big Golf Bid

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sam Snead has a message. The same one he has for everybody this time every year.

He says he's "ready."

Which figures because this is the week they play the Greater Greensboro Open and there's something about this $210,000 golf tournament that always makes 60-year-old Sam Snead hit the ball as if he was 20 again.

Snead has won the Greater Greensboro Open eight times. Once more, and he gets permanent possession. Can he possibly do it? Has he any chance at all?

"Certainly," insists Art Wall, the former Masters' champ, who played 18 with Snead over the Sedgefield Country Club course in Greensboro, N.C., Monday getting ready for Thursday's opening round.

"I mean that in complete sincerity," says Wall. "It's possible for Sam Snead to win anytime he tees it up. Particularly in this tournament. You know how many times he's won it. He practically owns this tournament. I'd say his chances of winning it again this time all depend on his putting and his nerves."

Snead and Wall each had 73's Monday. Par for Sedgefield is 71.

"We played a little Nassau and broke even," said Wall. "It's a pleasure to play with that man, an absolute delight. Me? I'm not playing what I would say is good golf. I'm scratching pretty hard, fading the ball and what not. But Sam is something else. I was watching him hit up the fairway. Ramrod straight. Good Lord, what a wonderful tempo he has. It's beautiful to watch."

Mention Sam Snead to some of the other golfers on the tour, and they simply shrug and change the subject pretty quickly. Art Wall doesn't though.

"Here's a fella who always had time for me when I first came on the tour in 1949. He'd stop, and maybe it was only small talk, but he was always approachable, always sociable. I know he rubs some people the wrong way, but if you try to understand the man and the tremendous demands made on his time, you come away with a much different picture of Sam Snead. He's as down to earth as any man I've ever met."

When he finished Monday's round with Wall (Jim Jamieson also played the first nine with them and then took off), Snead packed his clubs and went fishing.

You can see he's all worked up about whether he makes it number 9 here or not.

He'd like to, naturally.

It isn't only the money. Granted that has always been important, even vital, to Samuel Jackson Snead, but he'd love to win again now simply to show some of the kids on the tour —some of the older guys also.

"You know, there have been a lot of stories about Sam Snead and the way he's supposed to feel about money," says Wall. "Let me tell you one more, and this one is true. Sam and I were playing a practice round a few weeks ago and he beat me for $10. He wouldn't take my money. I asked him why not, and he said 'I just wanted to make you play hard.'"

Art Wall, who used to be right up there with the best but hasn't won a tournament in seven years, appreciated a thing like that.

No. 1 Bengal

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Center Bob Johnson, an All-American from the University of Tennessee, was the number one draft pick of the expansion Cincinnati Bengals for their initial season in 1968.

Van Pelt Signs With Grid Giants

NEW YORK (UPI) — Brad Van Pelt didn't receive an offer he couldn't refuse but he finally got one he could accept.

Van Pelt, the three sport star from Michigan State, has spent the last two months trying to decide whether to sign with the New York football Giants or the St. Louis baseball Cardinals.

The decision was difficult because the money offered by both sides was so close. "I was hoping that one of the offers would be so good that I couldn't turn it down. But the two offers were so close that I almost thought they had gotten together," he explained."

Van Pelt, who said he finally made up his mind Saturday night after a negotiating session with Giants' owner Wellington Mara, made it official Monday when he signed a three-year, six-figure, no-cut pact.

An All-America safety in college, Van Pelt is being switched to a linebacker spot by the Giants and is expected to start next season. The chance to play in the big leagues right away was a major factor in the decision since the Cardinals' monetary offer wasn't much different than the Giants' offer.

"I was afraid I might have gotten lost in the minors in baseball," he said. "I know my fastball is OK but my curve ball leaves a lot to be desired."

Van Pelt, a native of Owosso, Mich., said the decision might have been more difficult if he'd been drafted by the Detroit Tigers.

Van Pelt said he and the Giants were still "far apart" until Mara and his personnel director, Jim Trimble, met with him, his 24-year-old brother Robin and his father Arnold Saturday night. After several hours, they came to terms.

The Giants, who had traded away their first round pick, chose Van Pelt on the second round. He would have probably gone on the first round if he wasn't interested in baseball. Apparently, some teams didn't want to waste a first round pick on an athlete who might not play the sport.

ry. "He's so big. He's a great defensive player as well as devastating offensively. He took a lot out of us on defense."

Although the Bruins wrapped up their second consecutive undefeated season, they showed that without Walton they are just another good team, not a great one. When he went to the sidelines with three fouls late in the first half the Tigers immediately caught up and tied the score at intermission. Indiana did the same thing in the semi-finals when Walton was out of the game briefly.

There has been speculation that Walton will pass up his senior year to sign a lucrative pro contract with the Philadelphia 76ers of the National Basketball Association. Coach John Wooden insists that Bill will be back next year but Walton has not formally committed himself one way or another.

Olga Korbut Thrills Fans In Tour Windup

The tiny Miss Korbut and her teammates displayed their Olympic form to a near-capacity crowd of some 16,000 gymnastics enthusiasts in Chicago Stadium.

The size of the crowd was all the more remarkable because fans had only four days notice of the appearance of the gymnasts. No Chicago stop was scheduled on the original seven-city tour. It was arranged after Mayor Richard J. Daley cabled a personal plea to Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin.

By order of Mayor Daley, Monday was "Olga Korbut Day" in Chicago. Nobody could steal her show, but partisan fans of Lludmila Turishcheva threatened to shout down the Olga Korbut crowd.

Miss Turischeva, 20, won the gold medal for the "all-around" gymnastic performance at the 1972 Munich Olympics. She won the crowd's enthusiastic approval with her graceful performances in each event.

At Munich, she won gold medals for her performances on the balance beam and in floor exercises. She won a silver medal in the uneven parallel bars, in spite of a tumble which brought her to tears and won the hearts of television viewers all over the world.

Wonderful Year

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — To Jack Christiansen, a Detroit Lion, defensive back, 1951 was truly a wonderful year. He set a National Football League one-season record for returning punts for touchdowns, four, including two scoring gallops each against Los Angeles and Green Bay.

NBA Bucks Coming On Strong In Stretch

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Lakers don't dare to look back, because the red-hot Milwaukee Bucks are coming on strong in the final few days of the National Basketball Association's regular season.

The Bucks, with Oscar Robertson back in top form, blasted Portland 118-99 Monday night for their 13th straight win, pulling them to within onehalf game of the Lakers in the battle for the Western Conference's best winning percentage.

Tonight Kareem Abdul Jabbar, Robertson and the Bucks finish out their season at the Forum in a game which could re-arrange the matchups in the post season playoffs.

A Laker victory would assure Los Angeles of the Western Conference's best winning percentage and the home court advantage if the two teams should meet in the conference finals.

A Milwaukee victory would put the Bucks a half-game up and bring it down to the Lakers' season finale against the Golden State Warriors in Oakland on Wednesday. The Lakers would then have to beat Golden State to tie Milwaukee and force a pre-playoff game to be played in Milwaukee on Friday, which would decide once and for all which of the two teams has the best winning percentage.

Quite simply, the Lakers could save everyone including themselves a lot of problems by winning tonight.

Robertson, who has been hampered by injuries most of the year, scored 24 against the Blazers Monday night and appears to be gaining strength as the playoffs approach.

The Lakers themselves are coming off a strong 109-93 win in Seattle Sunday which coach Bill Sharman called the best game "we've played in the last two or three weeks."

In the only other MNBA game Monday night, Connie Hawkins scored 29 points to lead the Phoenix Suns to a come-from-behind 120-114 victory over the Golden State Warriors.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Outdoor Notes Worth Mention

I received some questions regarding an analysis of the 79 hunting accidents occurring in California last year. According to Hilton Bergstrom, in charge of the California Hunter-Safety Program for the Department of Fish and Game, data showed that the bulk of the accidents — 43 including 27 that were self inflicted — occurred at distances of 10 yards or less between shooter and victim. As the distance between the shooter and victim increased, the number decreased.

Age and experience was a factor as well, Bergstrom said. Forty-eight per cent of all accidents were caused by hunters between 13 and 24 years of age, and 55 per cent of the victims were in this age group.

MOST ACCIDENTS occurred in open areas where visibility was good. Deer hunters led all others in numbers of mishaps, with pheasant and dove hunters following in that order.

The shotgun was the most dangerous weapon. Shotguns were involved in 41 accidents. The rifle was next with 26.

Although victims denied almost to a man that they were practicing quick drawing, 90 per cent of the persons injured in pistol accidents suffered leg wounds.

This data continues to demonstrate that the careless hunter is most dangerous to himself.

OTHER INTERESTING fish and game recent information: Reports received from the Bradford Ranch in Mendocino County indicated a very successful turkey hatch in 1972. There were reports of one flock of 40 birds, and a neighbor reported a flock of about 70 birds. This would be the result of 11 turkeys released on the ranch in the fall of 1970.

A census has been made on a flock of swans wintering at the mouth of the Garcia River in Mendocino County. These birds have been wintering in the Garcia River area for many years and they appear to be increasing.

THE RANDOM sampling of hunters in the Napa Marsh area during the 1972-73 waterfowl season showed 168 hunters checked and 102 waterfowl. Ruddy and mallard ducks made up the bulk of the hunters' bag. Hunting was poor as reported by hunters and noted in the bag checks.

A small outbreak of cholera started in flooded barley fields at Grizzly Island Wildlife Area. Some 300-500 coots were lost in one week. The fields were pumped dry with portable pumps.

The Grizzly Island checking station was operated one weekend for the annual rabbit hunt. The number of hunters totaled 530 and they killed 606 rabbits.

A FIELD SURVEY was made of the Anderson Slough area in Clear Lake. A great blue heron rookery area was discovered. It has eighteen nest sites and a total of 50 great blue herons was observed in the area.

In February, a minor oil spill occurred in the Novato area from a leaking tank on a highway construction project. Several thousand waterfowl were using ponds in the spill area, but no oil-coated birds were observed. Personnel dispatched to the area used flares to keep the birds moving and prevent them from becoming contaminated.

THERE HAS BEEN a sharp increase in illegal night hunting and out-of-season poaching in several districts. This increase in illegal activity on deer and pigs may be due in part to the increased price of meat and to the reduction of jobs because of the weather.

The Patrol Boat, Minnow's replacement was delivered by the manufacturer during February. When fitting out and shakedown is completed, the addition of this craft should strengthen enforcement in San Pablo and San Francisco Bays appreciably.

As many as 100 persons at one time were checked by Marin County wardens in the Tiburon area of San Francisco Bay during February. These people were taking herring eggs and seaweed for their own use under the authority of a sport fishing license.

CORDER

While I'm in school, another guy is chalking up the experience. When I came out at 21, guys already had three years of professional experience. So, I had to advance quickly to the majors or not at all. I tried. I did my best, but I didn't make it. Now I'm into something I find rewarding. I get a lot of personal satisfaction out of showing the kids how to play the game correctly. The kids are working hard. We work Monday through Friday from 2:30 to 5, and we're out there learning the basics. And they're responding by winning games.

"After I show them how, they're on their own. They go out there and play the game." Corder then points out that he and Olsen "work 50-50. He works on the outfielders, and I work with the infielders. We both work with the pitchers.

"Remember, this is a team game, and all 19 of our guys play. No one carries the load alone."

Corder continues: "Not every boy can be a superstar, but he can develop his skills to the fullest. And he should hustle, because, in high school, you can win as many games by hustling as you will with skill."

Corder applied his hustling theory on his own career. Thus, when he found out the Novato baseball program had an opening, he went out and got the job.

"I'm going back to San Jose for my teaching credential, and, if there's an opening here in the fall, I'm told I'll be considered for it."

Tam Golf Team From 1968-69 Whips Varsity

The outstanding Tamalpais High School golf team of 1968-69 returned to the scene of its many triumphs yesterday afternoon and proved the old skill was still there, defeating the current Tam varsity at Mill Valley Municipal Course, 173-199.

Dean Rider and Rick Goldfein shot two-under-par 32s for the alumni, while Craig Smith and Mark Churchfield shot 36 each and Steve Goldfein 37. They were members of the team which set a Marin County Athletic League record of 46 consecutive victories.

Wayne Smith also played, but was "off his game and shot 46, according to coach Paul Wata, who arranged the match. The other team member, Jeff De Voto, was away at college.

Steve Gaddis led the varsity with 35.

In another non-league match yesterday, Scott Mayer shot 37 to lead Redwood to a 205-240 victory over Drake at Meadow Club.

Marin Catholic (2-2) defeated Galileo of San Francisco and Serra of San Mateo, 220-225-226, in a triangular match at Meadow Club, as Mike Maley led the Wildcats with 41.

Marin Babe Ruth Loop Tryouts Set

Southern Marin Babe Ruth League tryouts will be held Saturday starting at 9:30 a.m. at Tamalpais High School. The players will try out at either 9:30 or 2 p.m., depending on time assigned.

Additionally, the league is seeking managers and umpires. Candidates should contact either Leo Souza, managers committee chairman, at 20 Seafirth Road, Tiburon, or Frank Dittle Jr., umpire-in-chief, 153 Walnut, Mill Valley.

Netters Triumph

Redwood High School (4-0-1) defeated visiting Montgomery of Santa Rosa yesterday in a non-league tennis match, 5-2, as Colin Reeve, Bruce Manheim and Brandon Hill scored singles victories for the Giants and the teams of Fred Chang-Doug Elliott and John Barone-John Fernbacher won doubles matches.

SISLER

1924 are the only marks higher than Sisler's .420.

Sisler still holds the modern major league mark of making 257 hits in one season (1920). He was named the most valuable player in the American League in 1922 by the Chalmers automobile company. The award was the forerunner of the annual award presented to modern MVP's by the baseball writers association of america.

Sisler, who stood 5 foot-10 and weighed about 175 pounds, was considered one of the most graceful players ever seen on a diamond — both on the field and at bat.

Sisler batted .285 with the Browns in his rookie season but then embarked on a splendid career that saw him bat .305, .353, .341, .352, .407, .371, .420, .305, .345, .289 and .327 in consecutive seasons.

ALBANY, Calif. (UPI) — Headed by recent stakes winners Tea Axe and His Windsor, 15 of the West's top 3- year-old fillies have been nominated to the $30,000 added California Oaks, which will have its 23rd running Saturday at Golden Gate Fields.

At one mile, the historic Oaks will be contested over the infield turf course for the first time. The event was inaugurated in 1890 at Sacramento and is the female counterpart to the $100,000 added California Derby April 21. The Oaks winner could be a possible contender in that one.

NCAA Faces Suit From 2 Athletes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association is violating the 14th Amendment when it threatens athletes and their schools with economic sanctions, a federal court will be told April 17 when it resumes hearing a suit filed by two athletes.

The Associated Press learned today that the Amateur Athletic Union will make the charge in the suit filed by pentathlon competitor Fred Samara of Pennsylvania and middle distance runner Dennis Walker of Adelphia.

The two sought and received a temporary injunction from U.S. Dist. Court Judge Albert V. Bryan Jr. on March 16. The action allowed Samara and Walker to participate in a track and field meet between the United States and the Soviet Union at Richmond, Va.

The meet was sanctioned by the AAU but not the NCAA.

The NCAA, which governs the sports programs of about 659 colleges and universities, refuses to allow its athletes to compete in AAU events until the AAU applies for NCAA certification and receives it.

The AAU argues it doesn't have to ask for NCAA sanction for international events because of an arbitration agreement. handled down by the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur in 1963 and again five years later by a special five-man committee named by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

A source close to both sports organizations said the AAU will contend that since the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, which represents about 700 schools, allows its member athletes to take part in AAU events without sanctioning, the athlete at an NCAA school is being discriminated against.

New Furniture Store Opened By Veterans In The Business

Loucks McEvers

Ruggeri Interiors, a new furniture store, opened this week at 1009 Fourth Street in San Rafael in the old Woolworth location.

The store is owned by Dino Ruggeri of San Rafael, who has been in the business for 35 years; his son Robert Ruggeri, who worked for his father in San Francisco, and Gordon Brindley of Corte Madera, formerly with Sears.

Ruggeri Interiors carries furniture, rugs and drapes and is handling carpeting for homes built by McKeon Construction Co. The new store will be open Monday through Saturday.

SALON MONIQUE beauty shop at 510-B Tamalpais Drive in Corte Madera will be sold next Monday to Egil Mortensen of Greenbrae, who will introduce a new line of men's hair pieces called "Bogena Skalp of Europe."

Mortensen, who operates Barbers Three in the same Park Madera Shopping Center, said Bogena Skalp is spreading throughout Europe. "I'm the first one to introduce it in Marin."

Mortensen is buying Salon Monique from June A. Costello of San Rafael, who owned it for the past 10 years. She plans to move to Santa Rosa and will probably retire from the beauty shop business after 28 years.

The new owner said Salon Monique will operate unchanged, with the same personnel, except for the addition of men's hair pieces. A barber and hair stylist for about 30 years, Mortensen has been in Marin for 15 years, the last eight years as owner of Barbers Three.

WAYNE E. LOUCKS of Greenbrae has been named vice president, commercial loans, at Crocker Bank's administrative headquarters in San Francisco.

Loucks is a 10-year veteran with Crocker Bank. Before the appointment, he was vice president, commercial loans, at the bank's One Montgomery Street office in San Francisco.

MILTON S. (WHITEY) MC EVERS of Belvedere, a specialist at post No. 10 on the Pacific Stock Exchange's San Francisco trading floor, joined the investment securities firm of Mitchum, Jones & Templeton Inc. yesterday.

The addition of McEvers brings to six the number of posts operated by Mitchum, Jones & Templeton on the Pacific Stock Exchange — four on the San Francisco floor and two on the Los Angeles floor. MJ&T also operates a specialist post on the New York Stock Exchange. It is one of only three firms to operate specialist posts on both the New York Exchange and a regional exchange.

McEvers has been with Pacific Stock Exchange and its predecessors for 24 years and was a governor of the Exchange in 1967 and 1968. He was a specialist at Post No. 10 for Bregman & Co. West Inc. Mitchum, Jones & Templeton acquired Post No. 10 through an agreement with the Bregman firm.

WAGNER D'ALESSIO of Tiburon announced he is now semi-retired after 43 years with the California Casualty Group of insurance companies.

D'Alessio said he chose semi-retirement "because I'm too young to completely retire but too old to drive the commute hour freeways." He now rides the ferry from Marin to San Francisco to do part time sales work for California Casualty.

During his 43 years with California Casualty, D'Alessio rose through the ranks to become treasurer, executive vice president, president, and then vice chairman of the board of directors.

CALIFORNIA DEPARTMENT of Rehabilitation will move from downtown Fourth Street in San Rafael at the end of this week and reopen next Monday at 121 Paul Drive in Northgate Industrial Park, San Rafael, next to Banana Joe's restaurant.

The California Department of Rehabilitation, which helps those with physical and emotional difficulties, has been located for the past six years at 1299 Fourth Street in the Reynold C. Johnson building.

Mrs. Barbara Champion, rehabilitation supervisor at the office, said the new location has more space and more convenient parking.

S & C HOME Loans, a mortgage lending company, will relocate from 1010 B Street in San Rafael to 4340 Redwood Highway, Suite 37, at Northgate Industrial Park.

CELLE CONSTRUCTION Co., general contractor, at 1299 Fourth Street in San Rafael, will relocate to 110 Carlos Drive in Northgate Industrial Park.

ABOUT 25 WOMEN drivers are completing an automobile safety and maintenance course called "Women On Wheels", sponsored by Corte Madera Chrysler Plymouth, owned by Ray Delagnes.

The four-session course winds up tomorrow night. John Phelan, service manager, said 35 women enrolled at the start, and the class has averaged 25 or 26 each week. They learned about the engine, electrical system, fuel system and brakes, and tips on changing tires and starting on a weak battery.

BERNARD F. CHAPMAN of Fairfax has been named manager of employee communications, a newly created position, at Southern Pacific Transportation Company, San Francisco.

An employee of the railroad since 1952, Chapman has been special assistant in the operating department since 1969.

PAUL S. FOSTER of Mill Valley was promoted from assistant cashier to assistant vice president of United California Bank's growth financing department at the San Francisco office.

Foster graduated from University of California at Berkeley, served with the U.S. Navy from 1966 to 1969, and joined United California Bank in 1970.

Stockbrokers Reported Looking For Some Type Of Unionizing

The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Stockbrokers, traditionally considered the archetypes of capitalism and far removed from the labor movement, are threatening to unionize in what may become the first successful organizing program in the securities industry.

The Association of Investment Brokers, a group formed to represent brokers, has applied to the National Labor Relations Board to hold representative elections at four branch offices of Weis, Voisin & Co.

The membership effort is being directed at the brokers, not the clerical or nonprofessional personnel that might be deemed more likely candidates for unionizing. The rationale behind the movement has to do with the compensation practices that prevail in Wall Street.

The public tends to forget that brokers basically are salesmen and that in virtually all firms they are compensated on the basis of the revenues they generate for the firm at which they work.

These revenues generally are in the form of commission paid by investors to have their brokerage orders executed. Obviously, the better the salesman, the more commission revenues he will generate.

Surprisingly, at many firms the only way brokers are paid is through a portion of the commissions they produce. A large number of firms offer no health or life insurance benefits and no retirement plan.

The brokers are expected to become super-salesmen and take care of their own fringe benefits. If they have the foresight to set up their own insurance plans and retirement programs, this is in their favor.

But if they fall prey to normal human shortcomings, in many cases they put off such efforts until tomorrow, especially when they find how costly individual — as opposed to group — benefit plans can be.

One well-known firm not only eschews the benefits normally expected from working at a major industrial corporation, but also requires its sales personnel to pay their own telephone bills and even refuses to supply them with writing tablets and pens.

For generations, stockbrokers have willingly accepted all this, because their compensation tended to be high. But in recent years, cost inflation has caught up with Wall Street.

If one development can be singled out as having motivated brokers to unionize, it was the change in the commission-rate structure that occurred in Wall Street two years ago.

After years of dickering with the Securities and Exchange Commission, the New York Stock Exchange finally managed to gain its first rate increase since 1958. The SEC agreed that the need for higher rates existed, after some 13 years of static commissions.

Prior to that point, however, the SEC has granted the Big Board — and, of course, its member firms — an interim $15 commission surcharge on all trades up to 1,000 shares, except those where the surcharge would amount to more than 50 percent of the basic rate. In those cases, the surcharge was held to 50 percent.

The rationale for this increase was that Wall Street was virtually foundering. The SEC specified that the surcharge had to be used to bolster brokerage-firm finances and could not be used to compensate salesmen.

When the new rate structure replaced the old structure-with-surcharge, no such provision was made. But virtually all of the major firms at that point cut back on the percentage of the commission ticket paid to their salesmen.

The broker who had been getting 35 percent of each commission previously was now getting 28 percent or even 25 percent of the new, higher charge. The firms had gained and its salesmen had stood still.

'Wall Street Water' Hikes Stock Prices

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. If the book value of a stock is $15 and it trades at $35, I claim that the difference is "Wall Street Water" with no tangible value. Why should buyers and sellers pay a commission on the water content of a stock? — J.D.

A. Book value is a somewhat ambiguous term and in my view not a reliable determinant of a company's market worth. In order to arrive at book value, a firm's fixed assets as stated in the balance sheet are reduced by the amount of outstanding liabilities and by the balance sheet value of intangible assets. Thus, important but imprecise values, such as good will, are eliminated when calculating book value. The resultant figure, total book value — which is also called net worth — is then divided by the common shares outstanding to arrive at book value per share.

The weaknesses in using such a figure to evaluate a stock are several. Fixed assets are carried on a company's books at cost, minus depreciation. Property values fluctuate widely, thus cost figures are frequently out of phase with true market values. Depreciation may be figured by various methods, each of which results in a different amount. Therefore, book value may be significantly altered depending on the depreciation method used. Who is to say which, if either, figure is the correct one?

In the long run, the acid test of a company's value is the amount that the buyer is willing to pay for it. The buyer is naturally vitally interested in the net worth of the company, but he is more concerned with the potential for income from his investment, what the company will earn this year, next year or five years from now. It is this intangible earnings potential that induces investors to pay double or triple a stock's stated book value for many issues. Call it what you will, "Wall Street Water" exists because investors are willing to pay for more than a company's property, equipment, etc.

Market On Rebound At Opening

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices soared in faily active trading today on the New York Stock Exchange with investors encouraged by the market's gain in the previous session.

Analysts said the early gain indicated further rebounding from a prolonged decline, but considerable buying was simply due to the fact investors were inspired by the market's performance Monday, ending seven consecutive losses.

The compromise between the commercial banks and the administration on a 6 ½ per cent prime lending rate was a plus factor for the market, but considerable upward pressure on the prime still exists, analysts said.

Prices were mixed in moderate trading on the American Stock Exhcnage. Most active was Asamera Oil, up ¾ at 12 ⅝ on 26,600 shares.
